London, Jan. 4 (AP)—The first mate of the British rescue tug Turmoil today succeeded in boarding the Flying Enterprise to join Capt. Kurt Carlsen on the crippled American freighter.

The U. S. Destroyer John W. Weeks radioed that the tugboat "managed to get aboard over the taffrail of the Enterprise and is now standing by with Capt. Carlsen."

Growers to Hold Annual Meeting

State Society to Convene in City January 23 Through 25

James Clarke, Milton, vice-president of the New York State Horticultural Society, announced today that the trade show and meetings of the society in this city will be held January 23rd through the 25th. More than 55 exhibitors will have materials and machines on display said Mr. Clarke, including the new apple picker.

The meeting will start at the New York State Armory at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, January 23, with a thorough discussion of Apple Maggot and other insect controls, by specialists and growers. In the afternoon, diseases will be discussed and reducing the cost of spraying with tree removal and other practices. Legislative activities for the help of growers will be discussed in the evening.

Thursday, reports on cooperative marketing and promotion projects will be given on cherries and apples. L. A. Marvin, New York and New England Apple Institute manager, and John Chandler of Massachusetts, will tell how markets can be expanded. Porter Taylor of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and a marketing specialist, will discuss fruit distribution; and Cameron Garman will discuss the "Outlook" Thursday afternoon. This will be followed by a general discussion.

The 4-H Pie Baking Contest will be held Thursday and the banquet that night.

Use and misuse of hormones, and use of concentrate sprays, will be discussed Friday morning, by John Thew, Campbell Hall and Arthur Kurtz, New Paltz, will assist in the discussion.

Detailed programs can be obtained from the county agents and from the secretary, D. M. Dalrymple, Lockport.

Symington to Quit

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Stuart Symington, an ace pinch-hitter for the Truman administration for six years, will bow out in a few weeks as head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, probably taking a sizable slice of top RFC officials with him. President Truman told his news conference yesterday he expects to accept a resignation from Symington later this month. Symington is planning to return to private business. Indications are that resignations also will be forthcoming from a number of key officials installed by Symington in the RFC to help him with a sweeping cleanup job.

Condition is 'Good'

Saulpaugh Resigns Republican Office In Columbia

Refused to Answer Queries of Crime Commission—Sends Letter to James

Hudson, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—Sheriff Milton V. Saulpaugh, who refused to answer state crime commission questions about alleged contributions made to him, has resigned as chairman of the Columbia County Republican Committee.

Announcement of Saulpaugh's resignation came almost simultaneously with an order by Governor Dewey yesterday that a special grand jury be convened to investigate crime and reputed official corruption in Columbia county.

In a letter to the secretary of the county GOP committee, Henry M. James of Hudson, Saulpaugh said his resignation would "take effect immediately."

"I am taking this action," he wrote, "because of the fact that I believe the circumstances that have grown out of the recent hearing of the New York State Crime Commission . . . have left me in a position where I have been unable to defend my character or reputation, and because of my long service and devotion to the Republican party I feel that the best ends may be served by the step I am taking."

Saulpaugh, who is 55, had been GOP county chairman since 1945. He first took office as sheriff in 1930 for a three-year term. He was elected again in 1935 and has held office continuously since then.

Asked about rumors that he might resign as sheriff, Saulpaugh told a reporter, "I have no statement to make."

Refuses Answers

During the crime commission hearing, Saulpaugh refused to answer questions about alleged contributions made to him in recent years, on the ground that his answers might tend to incriminate him.

District Attorney John N. McLaren said at the commission hearing there had been evidence given to the commission "that might result in a charge of misconduct" against Saulpaugh.

"He has been my friend for 30 years. I have gone camping with him and things like that," McLaren said in indicating that he would prefer not to be in charge of a special probe.

Steel Strategists Recommend Strike Delay of 45 Days

Time Given to Permit U. S. to Work Out Settlement of Dispute

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 4 (AP)—Top strategists of the big steel union recommended a 45-day strike postponement today to give the government a chance to work out a suggested settlement.

The 35-man executive board of the CIO United Steelworkers and President Philip Murray proposed to a special USW convention that the approximately 2,400 delegates vote to set a new strike deadline 45 days from the first hearing called by the Wage Stabilization Board.

The WSB has scheduled a preliminary, or procedural meeting, for Monday in Washington. If the first regular hearing follows promptly after that session, the new strike deadline would be around Feb. 21.

The recommendation was made in the form of a resolution submitted to a special convention

What Now, McGrath?

Nothing Seems to Have Been Decided on His Status—He Won't Talk

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Attorney General J. Howard McGrath said today no change in his status is contemplated. His statement was to reporters questioning him about rumors he might leave President Truman's cabinet soon.

Goes to Meeting, Silent

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Attorney General J. Howard McGrath parried with non-committal replies today a direct question as to whether he has offered his resignation.

Because of reports that McGrath may step out soon, a reporter put the question to the attorney general point blank when he arrived at the White House for the regular Friday meeting of President Truman and his cabinet.

McGrath: "That question is almost as important as what's going to happen in the Democratic convention next summer."

Reporter: "It certainly seems to be getting important."

Laughing, McGrath agreed. The reporter told him that was "a highly inconclusive answer."

McGrath said, "It certainly is." Then he walked into the cabinet meeting.

Future Is in Doubt

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—There was a complete administration clam-up today on the future of Attorney General J. Howard McGrath, a wheelhorse in the Truman cabinet for the last two years.

A fair assumption based on developments yesterday is that nothing has been decided despite growing criticism that he has not been vigorous enough in cracking down on irregularities in his department.

The attorney general refused to talk with news reporters. Through a secretary, he sent out a repeated "no comment" all day yesterday on a fresh flurry of unconfirmed reports that he may shortly leave government service.

President Truman declined to answer any question on McGrath's status at a news conference late in the day, then abruptly cut off all inquiries along that line.

In Sharp Contrast

Both actions were in sharp contrast to the prompt and emphatic denials made by both Mr. Truman and McGrath as recently as three weeks ago that the attorney general might resign.

The resignation reports, then and now, stem from Congressional investigations into alleged federal income tax frauds, reputed attempts to influence government officials in pending cases, and the criticism of the political opposition that McGrath has not been sufficiently firm in dealing with the situation.

It is believed the President shortly will make a formal statement on McGrath, but has not decided what that statement will say.

Hard Choices Involved

Some hard choices are involved: The President finds on one hand a group of strident Republicans clamoring at the start of a presidential campaign year for a scalp somewhat bigger than that of Assistant Attorney General T. Lamar Caudle, fired by the President Nov. 16 for "outside activities"

Education Board Discusses Recent Ruling on Tuition

Trustees Expect Shortage of Funds Before School Year Is Ended

Members of the Kingston board of education at a regular meeting Thursday evening discussed the recent decision of the State Department of Education which reduced the non-resident tuition of District No. 8, town of Ulster.

Since the rate of tuition fixed last spring, $88 per non-resident pupil, was used as a basis for figuring income when the budget for 1951-52 was made up, it appears now with a drastic reduction in the non-resident tuition in effect the board will find itself short of funds before the school year is closed.

While the exact loss of revenue cannot now be determined since it is based on the number of non-residents in actual attendance, it appears as though the cut will amount to about $40,000 in revenue while the cost of operating the city's schools will not be decreased.

800 Other Students

In addition to the pupils from Ulster District No. 8, there are some 800 other students from rural areas who attend local grade and secondary schools in the city. The decision in the Town of Ulster case fixes the non-resident tuition and will also set the rate for other areas.

Past years when the tuition rate was $40 per pupil an item of $40,000 was put in the budget as income from this source. In the 1951-52 budget, after the rate of tuition was fixed at $88 per pupil that income item was estimated at $82,000. With the average tuition rate cut about in half the loss in income from tuition will be approximately $40,000.

No Action Taken

No action was taken by the trustees following the discussion but it may be necessary for the board to provide some temporary financing means before the end of the present school year to offset this loss of income from non-resident tuition.

Rates of tuition fixed by the State Department in the Town of Ulster case, replacing the flat $88 rate asked by the board, are: Kindergarten $50.58, Grades 1 through 6, $80.79, Grades 7 through 8, $18.17, Grades 9 through 12, $51.34. In addition to this tuition the city receives the state aid based on per pupil attendance.

For the building committee it was announced that the contract for construction of the field house on the high school area had been signed and work will start on that project next Monday.

In connection with the construction of the field house, Superintendent Laidlaw has sent the following letter to bus companies transporting pupils to the high school relative to arrival and departure of buses during the period rock blasting operations are underway for the building:

"On Monday, January 7, 1952, the contractor will start the construction of the field house on the area east of the Kingston High School. Before actual construction

Housing Project Application Is Passed — to Meet Jan. 10

The Common Council last night adopted a city budget fixing the tax rate at $51.76, authorized a revised application for more state money to finance the local housing project and deferred until a recessed meeting next Thursday action on a request from the public works board for $142,166.25.

The three Democratic members of the council went along on the budget vote after voicing mild objections, but they voted against the housing proposal which will increase the state grant to $1,300,000 from $1,181,500 because of increased costs since the first application was made.

Left with the finance ways and means committee until the recessed meeting next week was the B.P.W. request voted by the board Dec. 21. It asks for $75,000 to be used for improvements to streets and $67,166.25 for equipment and machinery.

Protection Is Asked

Referred to the zoning and planning boards and the laws and rules committee was a housing authority suggestion that a section of land on the west side of that in the Flatbush avenue area be used for the housing project, be given a protective residential designation.

The request, made through a letter from Arthur A. Davis, Jr., head of the authority, said that the land on the west side was the only area not designated as residential and he asked that the designation cover a section extending 150 feet westward.

A planning board resolution approving the housing authority's revised applications for more state money was received and filed.

The aldermen voted to renew for two years the lease of land in the town of Woodstock used by the Art Students League of New York. The land with several buildings owned by the art school is part of a tract in the area of city reservoir No. 2.

Alderman Abram D. Relyea, 11th Ward, and chairman of the laws and rules committee explained that the lease formerly Brooklyn Judge Carmine Marsasco held the housepainter without bail for sentencing at an unspecified date. He faces a possible term of 20 to 40 years.

Donofrio originally pleaded innocent on Jan. 18, 1951, to a murder charge.

Reds Make 7 Objections To 6 Points

Chinese Are Accused of Releasing Korean Troops to Form North Army

Sees Long Pull

Libby Believes Allies Face Struggle—Order Reds on Speaking

Munsan, Korea, Jan. 4 (AP)—The Communists made seven objections today to the six-point allied plan for exchanging prisoners of war and rejected a new UN appeal for an immediate trade of sick and wounded prisoners.

In a nearby tent at Panmunjom allied truce negotiators asked for an explanation of reports that the Communists are shipping crated warplanes into North Korea. They also accused Red China of releasing soldiers of Korean origin from its armies in 1949 and 1950 to form the cadre of the North Korean Red Army.

Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang said there was nothing wrong in this. He labeled the crated plane report a "ridiculous rumor."

Hsieh, in turn, accused the allies of holding behind their lines through intimidation with the atom bomb some 500,000 North Koreans.

Both subcommittees reported no progress toward an armistice. Both agreed to try again Saturday at 11 a. m. (9 p. m. EST Friday) in Panmunjom.

Four-Hour Session

The prisoner exchange subcommittee held a marathon session lasting four hours and 20 minutes.

Afterwards Rear Adm. R. E. Libby said:

"It looks to me as if we are in for a long struggle."

The Reds rejected the allied exchange plan Thursday, but Libby asked them to study it further.

Friday they specifically objected to:

1. Exchanging prisoners of war for civilians.

2. Differentiating between the release and repatriation of prisoners.

3. Neutral supervision by the Red Cross to make sure prisoners or civilians wanted to be exchanged.

4. Any form of paroles for prisoners.

5. Using a prisoner's pre-war address to determine whether he is a North or South Korean.

The Reds also:

6. Charged that the allied plan would not speed up the exchange of prisoners.

7. Denied that thousands of South Koreans had been impressed into the Red army.

Man-for-Man Basis

The allied plan called for an exchange of prisoners on a man-for-man basis until one side or the other holds no more. The remaining prisoners would be traded for civilians, and finally thousands of displaced civilians remaining would be traded in an all-for-all exchange.

However, the allies specified that no one-war prisoner or civilian would be repatriated against his will.

Prisoners refusing to be exchanged and prisoners traded for civilians would have to sign paroles promising not to fight again in the war.

North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho said "all peace-loving people of the world" favored the Red all-for-all plan for exchanging prisoners.

Libby told Lee repeatedly not to speak for the world, but only for those whom he represents at the conference.

Libby said the Reds flatly rejected a renewed appeal for an immediate exchange of sick and wounded prisoners.

In turning down the original Allied request a few days before Christmas, the Communists said an immediate exchange was unnecessary since both sides were working toward an armistice by Dec. 27, when a 30-day provisional cease-fire line agreement expired.

Replying to the Red charge that the Allies were holding a half-million North Koreans by intimidation, Libby said:

"We have given assistance and refuge to any civilian who took advantage of the opportunity to flee from what they regarded as oppression; we have caused civilians to move out of the danger zone; but we have kidnapped no one. Every one of those half million people who wants to go home will be permitted to do so as soon after the armistice as possible."

There was no immediate comment from the Reds.

Weather Worsens, Destroyer Reports About Situation, Where Carlsen Fights Lone Battle to Remain With His Stricken Vessel

London, Jan. 4 (AP)—The first mate of the British rescue tug Turnoil today succeeded in boarding the Flying Enterprise to join Capt. Kurt Carlsen on the crippled American freighter.

The U. S. Destroyer John W. Weeks radioed that the tugboat "managed to get aboard over the taffrail of the Enterprise and is now standing by with Capt. Carlsen."

Tugboat Captain Dan Parker was quoted as saying he is "confident I can get tow rigged if we get a break in the weather."

The message from the Weeks—timed at 2:30 p. m. (9:30 a. m., EST)—said fog was closing in and the wind had increased to 28-32 knots at times.

The message was not delivered to naval headquarters in London until 4:45 p. m. Meanwhile the British government weather forecasting service had issued warnings of gales—winds of 50 miles an hour—in the vicinity of the Enterprise.

Has Been Alone
Carlsen has been alone on the Flying Enterprise since last Saturday, the day after a wild Atlantic storm broke his ship and knocked her over on her side. The freighter has been listing at 60 to 80 degrees.

His crew of 40 and 10 passengers were taken off, but he decided to stick with his 396-foot ship and her cargo, valued at more than a million dollars, and protect the owners' rights in the ship, worth $1,400,000. The vessel, built in 1944, is owned by the Isbrandtsen Line, New York.

A message at 11 a. m., from the Weeks said the rescue tug Turnoil had made five vain attempts, in worsening weather, to get a towline aboard the Enterprise.

Says List Increases
The 2:30 p. m. message from the destroyed Weeks said the list of the Flying Enterprise, around 60 degrees yesterday, had increased "very slightly." But the freighter was "still buoyant and riding satisfactorily."

Capt. Parker said he would continue efforts around the clock to get a towline aboard the disabled freighter, wallowing 300 miles west of the southern tip of England.

In a nearby tent at Panmunjom allied trade negotiators asked for an explanation of reports that the Communists are shipping crated warplanes into North Korea. They also accused Red China of releasing soldiers of Korean origin from its armies in 1949 and 1950 to form the cadre of the North Korean Red army.

Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang said there was nothing wrong in this. He labeled the crated plane report a "ridiculous rumor."

Both subcommittees reported no progress toward an armistice. Both agreed to try again Saturday at 11 a. m. (9 p. m. EST Friday) in Panmunjom.

Four-Hour Session
The prisoner exchange subcommittee held a marathon session lasting four hours and 20 minutes.

Afterwards Rear Adm. R. E. Libby said:

"It looks to me as if we are in for a long struggle."

The Reds rejected the allied exchange plan Thursday, but Libby asked them to study it further.

Friday they specifically objected to:

1. Exchanging prisoners of war for civilians.

2. Differentiating between the release and repatriation of prisoners.

3. Neutral supervision by the Red Cross to make sure prisoners or civilians wanted to be exchanged.

4. Any form of paroles for prisoners.

5. Using a prisoner's pre-war address to determine whether he is a North or South Korean.

The Reds also:

6. Charged that the allied plan would not speed up the exchange of prisoners.

7. Denied that thousands of South Koreans had been impressed into the Red army.

Man-for-Man Basis
The allied plan called for an exchange of prisoners on a man-for-man basis until one side or the other holds no more. The remaining prisoners would be traded for civilians, and finally thousands of displaced civilians remaining would be traded in an all-for-all exchange.

However, the allies specified that no one-war prisoner or civilian would be repatriated against his will.

Prisoners refusing to be exchanged and prisoners traded for civilians would have to sign paroles promising not to fight again in the war.

North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Choo said "all peace-loving people of the world" favored the Red all-for-all plan for exchanging prisoners.

Libby told Lee repeatedly not to speak for the world, but only for those whom he represents at the conference.

Libby said the Reds flatly rejected a renewed appeal for an immediate exchange of sick and wounded prisoners.

In turning down the original Allied request a few days before Christmas, the Communists said an immediate exchange was unnecessary since both sides were working toward an armistice by Dec. 27, when a 30-day provisional cease-fire line agreement expired.

Replying to the Red charge that the Allies were holding a half-million North Koreans by intimidation, Libby said:

"We have given assistance and refuge to any civilian who took advantage of the opportunity to flee from what they regarded as oppression; we have caused civilians to move out of the danger zone; but we have kidnapped no one. Every one of those half million people who wants to go home will be permitted to do so as soon after the armistice as possible."

There was no immediate comment (Continued on Page 13, Col. 3)

Water Board Votes $500 Pay Increase

The Kingston Board of Water Commissioners voted last night to give all of its 30 employees a $500 pay increase "across the board."

The department functions independently of other city departments. It had previously voted a $240 cost-of-living bonus which ended Dec. 31, 1951. The $500 increase is added to base salaries exclusive of the prior cost-of-living bonus.

The board also voted to accept the resignation of John J. Byrne, superintendent of the department, who has accepted a similar position elsewhere. An eligibility list and one presenting qualifications for the position will also be requested of the Municipal Civil Service Commission.

It is expected that a temporary appointment will be made pending the examination from which an eligibility list will be made. This will probably be made after the commission submits the list giving qualifications.

The pay increase does not include the position of superintendent, because of present circumstances.

Fail to Appear

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—E. Merl Young, his brother Herschel and Joseph H. Rosenbaum, Washington attorney, failed to show in court today to enter pleas in perjury indictments. All three are under charges of lying under oath to a Senate subcommittee investigating favoritism and influence in Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans, to a federal grand jury, or to both the committee and the jury U. S. District Judge James R. Kirkland ordered arrest warrants issued, when they did not appear.

Libya Asks Membership

Paris, Jan. 4 (AP)—The new kingdom of Libya applied today for membership in the United Nations. Observers believed that Russia, although opposed to Libya's military base tieup with the western powers, might refrain from using her ever-ready veto, and let Libya in.

Newkirk Confers With Lipsett on Opening Street

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk today continued his efforts to determine what can be done to open the Broadway underpass for the balance of the winter.

Following a conference in Albany yesterday with officials of the state public works department, the mayor went to New York this morning to confer with officials of the contractor, Lipsett Inc.

The mayor said in his annual message that he was indignant as well as disappointed because the underpass was not ready for traffic, and he promised to continue efforts to get results. He is expected to announce what progress has been made following his return from New York.

A spokesman for the contractor said several days ago that legal aspects of insurance coverage on the project would probably preclude any temporary opening of the underpass this winter.

Verdict Issued In Baby's Death

Coroner Ernest A. Kelly today issued a verdict of death due to pneumonia and malnutrition following an autopsy performed on the body of Susan Ann Harvey, five-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harvey of 46 Locust avenue.

The death of the infant was reported to local authorities as occurring some time during Wednesday night.

It was reported Thursday that the belief was that the child had suffocated in its crib some time during the night.

Dr. Sidney Pauker, who was called to the home, pronounced the child dead.

Narcotics Raids Made

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Federal narcotics agents and local police swooped down on suspected dope peddlers and addicts in several of the nation's major cities today in a large scale attack on the drug traffic. Raids in New York city, Buffalo, San Antonio, Tex., and Detroit were staged simultaneously. Officials called it "the biggest roundup of suspected dope peddlers and users" ever staged in some areas. The crackdown started late last night. More arrests were expected.

Middletown Man Dies

Englewood, N. J., Jan. 4 (AP)—A 56-year-old Middletown man died in Englewood Hospital last night of injuries suffered in a freak accident involving three cars. Police said a car driven by Joseph Greenwald, 26 Lenox avenue, Middletown, was involved in a slight collision with another vehicle near the toll booth of the George Washington Bridge Wednesday night. As Greenwald and the driver of the other car were discussing the mishap, a third vehicle smashed into the rear of the two cars, crushing Greenwald, police added.

POW's Father Dies

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 4 (AP)—John J. Swift, Sr., died last night, three days after his fiercest son reached his bedside from a prison in Communist Hungary. Capt. John J. Swift, Jr., one of four American airmen "ransomed" by the United States government last week, was with his father when death ended their brief reunion at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Delaney's Wound Self Inflicted Is Police Report

Ernest Delaney, 32, of Rt. 1, Ulster Park, suffered a self-inflicted gunshot wound in the chest shortly after noon on Thursday, the sheriff's office and state police reported.

Kingston Hospital authorities late this morning reported Delaney's condition as "apparently fair."

The projectile passed through Delaney's body and imbedded itself in the wall of the living room of his home, the sheriff's office reported. An attending physician reported to sheriff's men that the slug missed Delaney's heart by only one-eighth of an inch.

Delaney's wife, Dorothy, discovered her husband lying injured on the couch in the living room when she returned home about 1:30 p. m. Thursday, the sheriff's office reported. She immediately summoned the Kingston Hospital ambulance, which arrived at the hospital with Delaney at 2 p. m.

Air Force Veteran

Delaney, a veteran of five years with the U. S. Air Force, was employed at Newburgh by the Underwood Typewriter Company. He is the father of three children, and resided on a Union Center road about mid-way between Ulster Park and St. Remy.

County Investigator Arthur H. Brown and Identification Officer Earl Conro of the sheriff's office said the wound was inflicted by a 16-gauge slug fired from a single barrel shotgun. The spent slug dug from the wall by Conro and gun are in the possession of the sheriff's office at the present time.

Separate investigations were begun by state police BCI men from Highland and by the sheriff's office after 6 p. m. Thursday when both agencies learned of the incident.

Hospital authorities later explained to the sheriff's office that they had not reported the gunshot wound because attendants assumed that two state troopers present in the hospital Thursday afternoon were investigating the case. The troopers, both from the Kingston station, actually were investigating an automobile accident in which Tracy Elliott of Connelly was injured.

Sgt. Linn Baker and Trooper John Metzger investigated the Delaney shooting and Thursday night reported it apparently accidental, an official at the Highland state police station said this morning. They found no evidence to indicate that the act was attempted suicide, Sgt. William Martin said today.

Quizzed at Hospital

County Investigator Brown said, however, that he questioned Delaney at the hospital this morning in the presence of a staff nurse, and that Delaney told him he had attempted to commit suicide.

Brown displayed empty containers of a white tonic and sleep tablets which he said Delaney told him he had consumed on Wednesday night.

Delaney told Brown he woke about noon Thursday, loaded the gun, placed its muzzle against his side and fired, Brown reported.

Brown and Conro reported their investigation disclosed that Delaney and his wife had had an argument on Saturday, after which Mrs. Delaney and the children left the house, and did not return until Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. Delaney came to the house, accompanied by her sister.

District Attorney Louis G. Brubaker was notified and is working with the investigating officers.

Delaney was attended at the hospital by Dr. Jack Lehner and Samuel Maroon. Because of extensive damage to the left chest wall, an emergency operation was performed by Dr. Joseph Jacobson and Dr. Maroon, the sheriff's office reported.

Ford Boost Approved

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—The government today approved higher ceiling prices for Ford Motor Company passenger cars. It refused, however, to grant the full rise asked by the company under the Caphart amendment to the economic controls law. The higher ceilings apply to Ford, Mercury and Lincoln automobiles. The Office of Price Stabilization said the company has not indicated whether it will put the increases into effect.

Bandit Shoots Customer

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—A young, swaggering, cursing bandit maced seven persons with a pearl-handled revolver and shot one of them in the foot before escaping from the E. C. Conroy Sandwich Shop, 567 Seventh avenue, Manhattan, with $415.00 early today. Victim of the shooting was Sam Klein, 62, of 2067 Harrison avenue, the Bronx. A night porter in a nearby loft building, he had gone to the shop for a sandwich.

Priority on Pay

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Legislation giving all members of the armed forces a 10 per cent pay increase may get a high priority in the session of Congress convening next Tuesday. Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee told newsmen today he has asked the rules committee to give the measure prompt clearance so it can be acted on immediately.

Big Fish Sale

Rome (AP)—A whale-sized fish fry has just been reported from Chile. Vendors on top of Santa Lucia Hill, outside Santiago, sold 75,000 pounds of fried fish—mostly hake—to the 250,000 visitors attracted there by Chile's fish and seafood exhibits. Thousands of pounds more were distributed free to the poor in Santiago. A report on the big fish fry was sent here to the fisheries division of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the UN. The Chilean government put on the fish week to boost interest in fishing and in fish as food.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Railroads led a forward movement today in the stock market, the fourth straight advance.

Gains ran from fractions to between 1 and 2 points with a few pushing out to between 2 and 3 points. Losses were fractions to as much as a point and were frequent enough to take the edge off the rally.

Union Pacific was up nearly 3 points at times and Illinois Central, Santa Fe, and Northern Pacific performed well. A block of 4,000 Canadian Pacific was traded up 1/8 at 35 1/8.

One of the outstanding issues was American Telephone which added a fraction in heavy trading. One block of 5,000 shares sold at 155 up 1/8. It was yesterday's most active issue and down a point. Pressure was said to have originated with selling of convertible bonds whose buyers would convert and sell the stock.

Three Little Zeros Are Big Difference

The fact that three "zeros" crept into the advertisement of the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston last evening has caused all concerned to blush slightly and if the figures were correct it might even have caused the Banking Department to raise an eyebrow.

There was contained a statement in the advertisement that during the past year there had been paid out to 5,148 shareholders a total of $101,000,941.83, a most unusual figure when it is considered the Association deposits are around $9,000,000. The figure was obviously an error.

The dividend to shareholders should have read $101,941.83 for the year, which still is a good return on an investment in these days.

Fifth Ward Boys Club Progresses

The Fifth Ward Boys Club was officially organized at a meeting Thursday night at the club headquarters at 65 Gill street.

The club, founded on Oct. 21 by Anthony Alecca, was organized to instruct boys in woodworking and in the operation of wood-working tools which are not hazardous.

Thursday's organizational meeting followed a meat ball and spaghetti supper prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Alecca. Discussion of future plans and a social time including games occupied the time after the meeting.

Under the leadership of their advisor, "Tony," the boys had a busy holiday season making and repairing toys. Money raised will be used to purchase sport equipment for the coming season.

The club is self supporting, with donations of all kinds of lumber accepted to make such articles as lawn chairs, ornaments and wall whannots.

Donations of lumber from one quarter to one inch will be appreciated by the club members and director. A call to Kingston 6557-R will bring someone to pick up donated lumber.

Director Alecca also has extended an invitation to the public to visit the club at its headquarters any evening from 5:30 until 9 o'clock, or any time on Sunday.

cannot lose our freedom unless we lose our faith

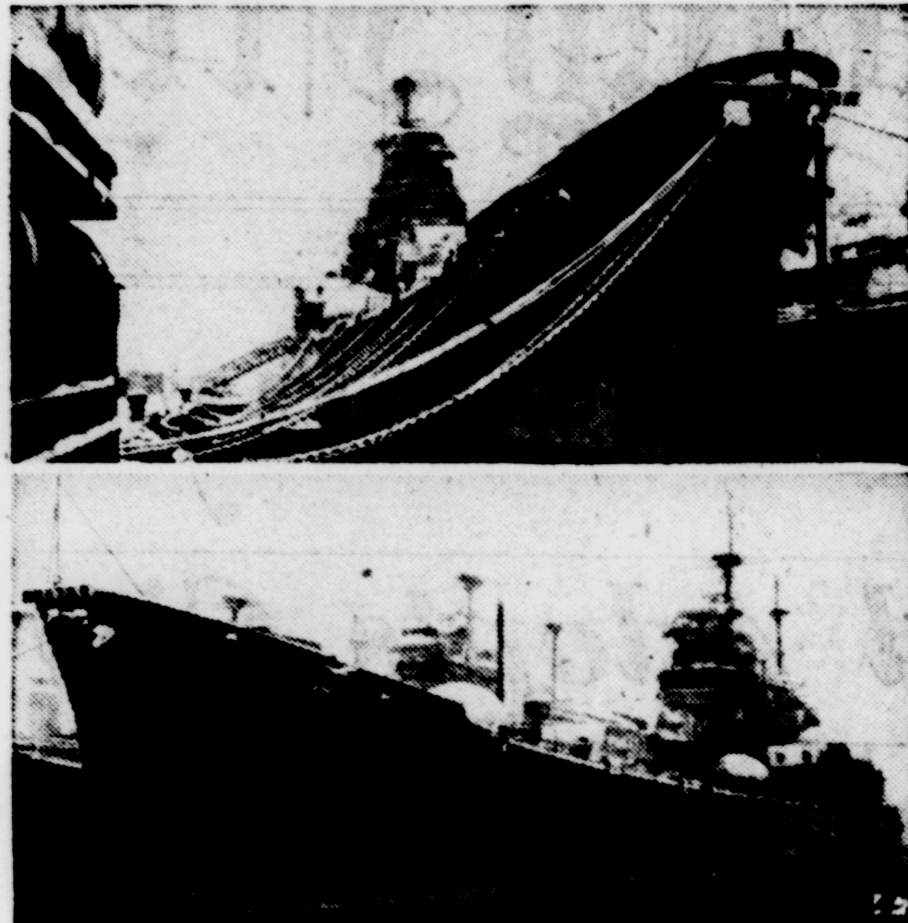

There is no week nor day nor hour when tyranny may not enter upon this country if the people lose their supreme confidence in themselves.

—Walt Whitman

To be deserving of our freedom we must return to the faith of our fathers and rededicate our country to the observance of the Christian principles that guided our inspired leaders in the darkest days our country ever knew.

Delaney's Wound Self Inflicted Is Police Report

Ernest Delaney, 32, of Rt. 1, Ulster Park, suffered a self-inflicted gunshot wound in the chest shortly after noon on Thursday, the sheriff's office and state police reported.

Kingston Hospital authorities late this morning reported Delaney's condition as "apparently fair."

The projectile passed through Delaney's body and imbedded itself in the wall of the living room of his home, the sheriff's office reported. An attending physician reported to the sheriff's men that the slug missed Delaney's heart by only one-eighth of an inch.

Delaney's wife, Dorothy, discovered her husband lying injured on the couch in the living room when she returned home about 1:30 p. m. Thursday, the sheriff's office reported. She immediately summoned the Kingston Hospital ambulance, which arrived at the hospital with Delaney at 2 p. m.

Air Force Veteran

Delaney, a veteran of five years with the U. S. Air Force, was employed at Newburgh by the Unimac Typewriter Company. He is the father of three children, and resided on the Union Center road about mid-way between Ulster Park and St. Remy.

County Investigator Arthur H. Brown and Identification Officer Earl Conro of the sheriff's office said the wound was inflicted by a 16-gauge slug fired from a single shot gun. The spent slug dug from the wall by Conro and the gun are in the possession of the sheriff's office at the present time.

Separate investigations were begun by state police BCI men from Highland and by the sheriff's office after 6 p. m. Thursday when both agencies learned of the incident.

Hospital authorities later explained to the sheriff's office that they had not reported the gunshot wound because attendants assumed that two state troopers present in the hospital Thursday afternoon were investigating the case. The troopers, both from the Kingston station, actually were investigating an automobile accident in which Tracy Elliott of Connelly was injured.

Sgt. Linn Baker and Trooper John Metzger investigated the Delaney shooting and Thursday night reported it apparently accidental, an official at the Highland state police station said this morning. They found no evidence to indicate that the act was attempted suicide. Sgt. William Martin said today.

Quizzed at Hospital

County Investigator Brown said, however, that he questioned Delaney at the hospital this morning in the presence of a staff nurse, and that Delaney told him he had attempted to commit suicide.

Brown displayed empty containers of a nerve tonic and sleeping tablets, which he said Delaney told him he had consumed on Wednesday night.

Delaney told Brown he woke about noon Thursday, loaded the gun, placed its muzzle against his side and fired, Brown reported.

Brown and Conro reported their investigation disclosed that Delaney and his wife had had an argument on Saturday, after which Mrs. Delaney and the children left the house, and did not return until Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. Delaney came to the house, accompanied by her sister. District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn was notified and is working with the investigating officers.

Delaney was attended at the hospital by Dr. Jack Lehner and Samuel Maroon. Because of extensive damage to the left chest wall, an emergency operation was performed by Dr. Joseph Jacobson and Dr. Maroon, the sheriff's office reported.

Ford Boost Approved

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—The government today approved higher ceiling prices for Ford Motor Company passenger cars. It refused, however, to grant the full rise asked by the company under the economic controls law. The higher ceilings apply to Ford, Mercury and Lincoln automobiles. The Office of Price Stabilization said the company has not indicated whether it will put the increases into effect.

Bandit Shoots Customer

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—A young, swaggering, cursing bandit snatched seven persons with a pearl-handled revolver and shot one of them in the foot before escaping from the Economy Sandwich Shop, 367 Seventh avenue, Manhattan, with $41.50 early today.

Victim of the shooting was Sam Klein, 62, of 2067 Harrison avenue, the Bronx. A night porter in a nearby loft building, he had gone to the shop for a sandwich.

Priority on Pay

Washington, Jan. 4 (AP)—Legislation giving all members of the armed forces a 10 per cent pay increase may get high priority in the session of Congress convening next Tuesday. Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee told newsmen today he has asked the rules committee to give the measure prompt clearance so it can be acted on immediately.

Big Fish Sale

Rome (AP)—A whale-sized fish fry has been reported from Chile. Vendors on top of Santa Lucia Hill, outside Santiago, sold 75,000 pounds of fried fish—mostly hake—to the 250,000 visitors attracted there by Chile's fish week exhibits. Thousands of pounds more were distributed free to the poor in Santiago. A report on the big fish fry was sent to the Fisheries division of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the U. N. The Chilean government put on the fish week to boost interest in fishing and in fish as food.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Railroads led a forward movement today in the stock market, the fourth straight advance.

Gains ran from fractions to between 1 and 2 points with a few pushing out to between 2 and 3 points. Losses were fractions to as much as a point and were frequent enough to take the edge off the rally.

Union Pacific was up nearly 3 points at times and Illinois Central, Santa Fe, and Northern Pacific performed well. A block of 4,000 Canadian Pacific was traded up 1/8 at 35 1/8.

One of the outstanding issues was American Telephone which added a fraction in heavy trading. One block of 5,000 shares sold at 155 1/8. It was yesterday's most active issue and down a point. Pressure was said to have originated with selling of convertible bonds whose buyers would convert and sell the stock.

Three Little Zeros Are Big Difference

The fact that three "zeros" crept into the advertisement of the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston last evening has caused all concerned to blush slightly and if the figures were correct it might even have caused the Banking Department to raise an eyebrow.

There was contained a statement in the advertisement that during the past year there had been paid out to 5,148 shareholders a total of $101,000,941.83, a most unusual figure when it is considered the Association deposits are around $9,000,000. The figure was obviously an error.

The dividend to shareholders should have read $101,941.83 for the year, which still is a good return on an investment in these days.

Fifth Ward Boys Club Progresses

The Fifth Ward Boys Club was officially organized at a meeting Thursday night at the club headquarters at 65 Gill street.

The club, founded on Oct. 21 by Anthony Alecca, was organized to instruct boys in woodworking and in the operation of wood-working tools which are not hazardous.

Thursday's organizational meeting followed a meat ball and spaghetti supper prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Alecca. Discussion of future plans and a social time including games occupied the time after the meeting.

Under the leadership of their advisor, "Tony," the boys had a busy holiday season making and repairing toys. Money raised will be used to purchase sport equipment for the coming season.

The club is self supporting, with donations of all kinds of lumber accepted to make such articles as lawn chairs, ornaments and wall whatnots.

Donations of lumber from one quarter to one inch will be appreciated by the club members and director. A call to Kingston 6557-R will bring someone to pick up donated lumber.

Director Alecca also has extended an invitation to the public to visit the club at its headquarters any evening from 5:30 until 9 o'clock, or any time on Sunday.

Pfc. Donald I. Short has returned to his air force base at Biloxi, Miss., after spending the holidays with his mother, Mrs. Mary Short, 621 Broadway.

Plunkett Not Barred
Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 4 (AP)—A Superior Court judge ruled yesterday that a man convicted of manslaughter in the slaying of his wife is not barred from taking her $400,000 estate. The question, never before decided in Connecticut, arose in a dispute over the estate of the late Esther Bird Plunkett, wealthy dog fancier, who was shot and killed in her Stamford home on November 1, 1949. Her husband, James Garrett Plunkett, was tried for second degree murder, but a Superior Court jury convicted him of manslaughter instead.

G. W. Gatz Resigns

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—George W. Gatz, who figured in testimony in the state crime commission's Staten Island investigation, has resigned as chief executive officer of the State Liquor Authority (SLA). Gatz resigned Dec. 19 to reenter private business. It became known last night. His successor as SLA chief executive officer, George P. Buttery, said the resignation and its acceptance were on the minutes of the SLA board meeting of Dec. 19.

Monkeyshines Cost City $86.15

A park monkey's sport with three pairs of glasses brought a pay-off by the city last night.

The Common Council, on recommendation of Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly, voted to pay $86.15 to three persons who got too close to the spectacle snatching simian at Forsyth Park last summer.

The monkey, it was indicated in the letters of complainants, each time disported with the glasses by reaching through a hole in the cage wiring. It was "zip!" and the specs were gone.

The aldermen voted $24 to pay for the glasses of the Rev. Lars H. Lillestoen, of 128 Downs street, who said his glasses were snatched last Aug. 4.

Helen Stanley, of 72 Hunter street, will be reimbursed to the extent of $26.15 for her glasses which were grabbed from her face last July 1.

Double Vision Snatch

Where Harry J. Smith, of Wawarsing, was concerned, however, the monkey got hold of a double vision pair, and the councilmen voted to pay him $36 which he had spent for a new pair.

All this monkey business set the aldermen to smiling when City Clerk Bernhard Kramer read details of the claims.

It was indicated that a section of wiring in the cage had been weakened by the poking of sticks into the cage by children. City officials, however, kept an eye on the situation after the animal had become too proficient as a spectacle snatcher.

Other Claim Settled

The aldermen also voted to settle a claim filed by Sarah Borenstein of Fair street for $175 for injuries suffered in a fall on June 13, 1950 on Fair street during city construction work there. She suffered injuries of the left side, left hip, left hand and right leg, her claims said.

Kiwanis to Install Officers Jan. 10th

Installation of officers and directors of the Kingston Kiwanis Club was postponed until next Thursday noon, because Kiwanis Lt. Gov. Tom Chisholm was unable to be here as scheduled this week.

This week's meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday was devoted to handing out committee assignments for the year and discussion of plans. It was the first meeting presided over by Ray Garrahan as new president of the club.

Have Eye on Trade

Moscow, Jan. 4 (P)—Diplomats here believe Russia has adopted a new policy toward Japan and soon may offer to sign a peace treaty with her. The Soviet Union spurned western terms for peace with Japan and refused to sign the Japanese Peace Treaty engineered over some western objections, by John Foster Dulles. But it is no secret the Soviet Union would like to build up trade with Japan, and to see trade renewed between Japan and China.

HIGH FALLS

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith Sr., spent the holidays with their daughter and family, the Frank Williams of Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Tucker and daughter of New York spent the New Year's weekend with Mr. Tucker's mother, Mrs. Vincent Gaudio. Mr. and Mrs. Gaudio have recently moved into the home formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Ham.

Memorial Services Are to Be Held

West Point, N. Y., Jan. 4 (P)—Memorial services will be held at the U. S. Military Academy Sunday for the 19 cadets killed in a plane crash in Arizona.

Academy officials announced yesterday that the rites will be held in the chapel and that each denomination which ordinarily holds services there will include a memorial tribute.

The academy's American Flag will remain at half staff until sundown on Sunday. After that, it will be lowered to half staff on any day that a body of one of the crash victims is returned to West Point.

Next-of-kin have the choice of having the cadets buried here or in private cemeteries.

Messages of sympathy continued to be received at the academy from military leaders and scholastic groups. Among them were:

Midshipmen at the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis; U. S. Merchant Marine Academy, Kings Point, N. Y.; Royal Military Academy, Sandhurst, England; Military Aviation School of Venezuela, and the National Alumni Association of Princeton University.

Also, Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter; Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army chief of staff; Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air force chief of staff, and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The 19 cadets died while flying back to the academy in an air force plane from the west coast where they had spent Christmas. The plane crashed into a mountain in bad weather last Sunday. Four crew members and five other military passengers also were killed.

Changes Caucus Rule

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 4 (P)—The new majority leader of the State Senate today announced a slight revision in the controversial Senate caucus rule. State Sen. David Young (R-Morris) said he and his fellow Republican senators have decided that only nine votes—taken at a secret session—will be needed to bring a major bill to the floor of the Senate for a public vote.

In previous years, 11 votes were needed. Critics of the caucus have charged that many good bills were killed by the system.

'Quake Kills 93

Istanbul, Turkey, Jan. 4 (P)—An earthquake killed at least 93 persons in eastern Turkey yesterday. Officials said today the death toll undoubtedly go much higher.

Final Body Is Taken to Morgue

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 4 (P)—The last of 28 bodies of military personnel killed in the crash of an air force C-47 against an Arizona mountain Sunday was brought to a mortuary at Mesa, Ariz., today.

Medical corpsmen from Williams Air Force Base, with the aid of civilians, completed the difficult and dangerous task of removing the bodies from 7,000-foot snow-capped Armer Mountain 65 miles northeast of Phoenix last night.

It had been thought three days would be needed to transport the bodies down the narrow, icy trail. But the task was finished in two days. Wreckage of the plane, which exploded on impact about 100 feet below the summit of the mountain, was first sighted Tuesday.

The bodies were brought down the mountain by pack horses and then transferred to ambulances which brought them the 90-odd miles by road to Mesa.

Madagascar is the fifth largest of the islands of the world, with an area of 228,000 square miles.

Night School Will Reopen on Monday

Night school classes of the adult education program of the Kingston public schools, which were closed during the holidays, will reopen Monday at 7 p. m.

The following classes were organized last fall and were in operation at closing time in December:

Americanization, wherein an effort is made to teach foreign-born people the English language, civics, and prepare them for citizenship.

Art, including oil painting, water colors, charcoal, etc.

Automobiles, blueprint reading, and mechanical drawing, bookkeeping, business machine operation, ceramics, child study group, studying the child at home and at school.

Electricity, food preparation, machine shop practice, metalcraft, public speaking, sewing, shorthand 1 and 2, typewriting, woodwork.

Any interested person may be admitted immediately to the classes in Americanization, bookkeeping, business machine operation, child study, electricity, food preparation, machine shop, public speaking, sewing, shorthand (advanced and beginning) and typewriting.

While the other classes are filled at present, anyone registering next Monday, January 7, would not need to wait very long before being called.

Anyone desiring further information in regard to the adult education program may phone Hubert Hoderath, director of adult education, 1884.

Paris, Jan. 4 (AP)—French sources said today they have received unofficial reports that Red China has concentrated 200,000 soldiers with full battle gear in areas just north of the French Indochina border. These sources said they did not believe Red China would attack Indochina while fighting continues in Korea.

Father Murphy Home From Paraguay

The Rev. James L. Murphy, C.S.S.R., who for more than six years has been in the foreign mission field in Paraguay, is pictured above as he visited his brother, Police Sergeant Robert F. Murphy, this week.

A native of Kingston, Father Murphy is the son of Mrs. Charles Joseph Murphy, 177 Hasbrouck avenue, and the late Officer Murphy, who died while a member of the Kingston Police Department 20 years ago.

Kiwanis to Install Officers Jan. 10th

Installation of officers and directors of the Kingston Kiwanis Club was postponed until next Thursday noon, because Kiwanis Lt. Gov. Tom Chisholm was unable to be here as scheduled this week.

This week's meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday was devoted to handing out committee assignments for the year and discussion of plans. It was the first meeting presided over by Ray Garraghan as new president of the club.

Have Eye on Trade

Moscow, Jan. 4 (AP)—Diplomats here believe Russia has adopted a new policy toward Japan and soon may offer to sign a peace treaty with her. The Soviet Union spurned western terms for peace with Japan and refused to sign the Japanese Peace Treaty engineered, over some western objections, by John Foster Dulles. But it is no secret the Soviet Union would like to build up trade with Japan, and to see trade renewed between Japan and China.

The Redemptorist fathers were invited into Paraguay by the archbishop. Their biggest job there, according to Father Murphy, is one of religious instruction, trying to form Christian families in that country where because of a lack of priests many residents have been unable to receive instructions. Expressing his thankfulness to his many friends in Kingston for their assistance in the work, he reported that two chapels have been erected in that country with the aid of residents of this city.

Paraguay, characterized by astounding poverty and frequent political upheavals, is mainly a cattle raising territory. Most of its population is rural, and his work therefore consists in a large part of seeking out the country families, giving baptisms, performing marriages and giving instructions. He will return there after his leave.

The Redemptorist order (Congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer) was founded in Naples in 1732 by St. Alphonsus Maria de Liguori.

NATURE HEAVES A SNOWBALL

Man is inclined to behave in a rather cocky manner as he sums up his superlative scientific conquests of his material world. But just when he is about to become insufferable, nature takes him down several rungs on the ladder.

Weather seems to be nature's chief weapon for administering these rebuffs. And right now one of these little lessons is in progress. Snow, the lovely white stuff that does so much for Christmas, isn't doing much good for man in some of our key cities these days.

Look at Chicago, for instance. Chicagoans have watched upwards of 30 inches of snow descend upon them during the past month, and most of it is still on the ground. Altogether they've had nearly 50 inches since the season began.

The transportation officials are fed up. They've spent $600,000 already in trying to keep buses and street cars rolling, but it's been largely a losing battle. Marooned automobiles block plowing efforts in many spots. Side streets are a bold adventure to any motorist. Hardly a one does not echo continually the whine of spinning tires trapped in churned-up drifts.

Snow removal authorities complain they can't find places to dump the snow they strip from the streets. The usual dumping grounds are loaded, and there's little melting to make room for more.

The thick mantle has almost smothered the city's normal doings. Countless business and social engagements haven't come off. Industry and commerce are slowed. The filling station proprietors are muttering about the 20 to 25 per cent drop in gasoline sales.

Things are no better in Detroit, another industrial whopper. Some 32 inches has been the city's total snowfall since November 1. Virtually all of that fell in a two-week period. Weather officials can't remember a worse winter in the 52-year-old history of Detroit's Weather Bureau.

A motor manufacturer laid 6,000 men off their jobs recently because trains and trucks hampered by snow couldn't keep the plant supplied with parts. Elsewhere in the city, it was like the Chicago story in main details.

Cities like Chicago and Detroit couldn't keep enough snow-removal equipment on hand to deal forcefully with nature when she is in so abundant a mood. So they stay half immobilized for days, possibly weeks, waiting for a warm sun to do what men in all their technical glory seem unable to do.

Anyone who has been in a giant metropolis when the snow was piled high can grasp what a feeling of helplessness grips the city which is weighted with such a burden. Human values are altered, too. What seemed important in a time of clear streets suddenly appears much less so in an hour of urban paralysis. The simplest acts of getting about become major enterprises. Life is measured in terms of only the most elemental necessities.

Yes, there is nothing like a few 10-foot snowdrifts to compel man to take stock and see himself in slightly humbler perspective.

SYMPATHY FROM RUSSIA

Premier Josef Stalin of Russia sent to the Japanese people a message of sympathy for their plight under American occupation.

If the recent reports we have had from Japan are accurate, the people there are not feeling any great need of sympathy. They have made, in fact, one of the most rapid recoveries any people ever made after defeat in an extended war, and have acquired individual liberties and privileges never before enjoyed, as well as a standard of living which, for the average family, must be at least as good as it was during the period of Japanese conquest.

Perhaps it would be more in order for Japan to send to the Russian people sympathy for their condition under communism.

The person who complains that he has no appetite for his food is not nearly so badly off as the one who has no food for his appetite.

THE NEXT CONGRESS

The second session of the 82nd Congress which now meets is not likely to be productive of great legislative measures; yet it may prove to be one of the most important in our history.

President Truman has lost the leadership of his party. His so-called "program," a medley of socialistic and class measures, designed to catch bloc votes, will not even get a hearing. The economic fantasies of his economic adviser, Leon Keyserling, have whiffed off into the cloudy miasma whence they came. The Democratic leadership in the Senate is no longer unified. It is each man for himself—particularly those senators who require re-election.

In the House, the confusion is equally general. The success of Congressman Cecil King's subcommittee in uncovering corruption has whetted many an appetite for similar service and acclaim. There is likely to be committee competition in this field.

In the Senate, the Republicans remain under the leadership of Senator Robert A. Taft, except that the Eisenhower contingent, particularly those who are vice-presidential hopefuls, will seek to clip Taft's wings. They will be treated without too much courtesy as the convention approaches. The stalwarts of Republican New Dealism, Duff of Pennsylvania, Lodge and Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Morse of Oregon, and Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, will find little comfort within their own party, no matter how much praise they get among the intellectual hillbillies of Park Avenue.

It will be a tough, noisome Congress. The McCarran Committee is the one to watch most keenly. It has the goods. Owen Lattimore's testimony will have to be tested against the files taken from E. C. Carter's barn. John Carter Vincent will have an opportunity to testify in January. Before this committee is through with its work, several great American reputations will be tarnished if not wrecked. On the constructive side, this committee will have established the Russian pattern of infiltration into our government.

Next in importance will be the hearings before the Gillette Committee into Senator William Benton's charges against Senator Joe McCarthy. To the Democrats, Senator Benton's charges are a political headache because they may result in a Republican victory in Connecticut. The hearing centers on Senator McCarthy's Wheeling (W. Va.) speech and the mixed testimony as to what he actually said. Senator McCarthy is using this investigation to win in Wisconsin.

The burden of taxes, while some evade them, has proved embarrassing to many members of Congress, particularly those who went home during the Christmas holidays. Without regard to partisanship, those members of the Senate or House who come up for re-election cannot vote for increased taxes. Most of them will have to make some reasonable and articulate evidence that they favor not only punishment for fraud and tax evasions, but the collection of money due. For obviously, the rest of us pay more because some do not pay enough and some not at all.

The President will probably fight off any investigation by a congressional committee of actual income tax returns. To so-called practical politicians it will not be so important that the returns should actually be examined as that they should propose that it should be done. It is believed, in Washington, that many important persons have made only nominal returns. Therefore, this issue becomes strictly political in an election year.

Meanwhile, Representative Frederic R. Coudert, Jr., will introduce two measures which, if they are not treated with consideration, will become campaign issues. One measure will be "to assist individuals to provide financial security upon retirement and to make provisions for surviving members of their families by allowing an income tax deduction for premiums paid on annuity and life insurance contracts."

This is the sanest and most generally fair measure to assist the "white collar class" and provide for their old age, as the obsolescence of machines is already provided for. Is not a man as worthy as a machine? The measure will not require anyone to join a union, guild or association, as Senator Ives and Representative Coudert proposed last year upon instigation of a bar association committee.

The other measure is designed:

"To compel the establishment of a balanced budget for 1953 based upon the present high tax rates, and

"Second: Take a first step in the direction of reduction in annual expenditures to the end that intolerable tax rates may be presently reduced and a beginning made in reduction of the national debt."

It would limit expenditures to $71,000,000,000, no matter who wants to spend more, and for what ever reason.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

NUTRITION FOR OLDER PERSONS

Many men and women, as they grow older, feel that meat is not good for them, that as they do not work hard physically, there is little need for meat and other proteins. Eggs, fowl and fish. Specialists in foods and nutrition remind us that proteins are needed from infancy to old age.

In The Canadian Journal of Public Health, Toronto, Dr. E. W. McHenry states that the health of older persons is becoming of increasing concern as the percentage of these persons increases in the population. "Protein is one type of food constituent that older persons frequently neglect; meat, cheese and milk are unlikely to be eaten in adequate amounts. This neglect is due to a mistaken notion that meat is harmful for older persons. Little or no cheese is eaten because of the old wives' tale that cheese is indigestible and constipating. Little milk is taken because these persons grow up in an age when the value of milk was not appreciated."

While it is generally known that meat is needed for growth, it is not generally realized that the wear and tear on body tissues which must be replaced makes it necessary that meat or other protein be eaten every day if the strength of the body tissues is to be maintained.

Dr. McHenry also points out that many older persons, in addition to eating an insufficient amount of the protein foods, also neglect to eat enough of the foods containing calcium (milk, milk, cheese, and leafy vegetables, egg yolk, and also enough of the foods containing iron—meat (liver), whole grains, leafy vegetables and egg yolk.

Almost daily we can see the results in older persons who do not eat enough calcium. If the amount of calcium in the blood is low, there is frequent weakening and breaking of the bones, which take a long time to knit.

Most vitamins are needed as much in age as in youth.

In her book "Nutrition and Physical Fitness," Dr. Jean Bogert also suggests that meat be eaten by older persons, being chopped fine if necessary.

In general, the diet best adapted to the alimentary (stomach and intestines) tract of the aged closely resembles that recommended for children—namely milk and eggs, thoroughly cooked cereals, stale bread, toast or crackers, fruits and vegetables (cooked or strained if necessary), soups, the simple desserts (custards, blanc mange, cereal puddings) with mild stimulants such as tea, coffee and meat broths, which are not permissible for young children.

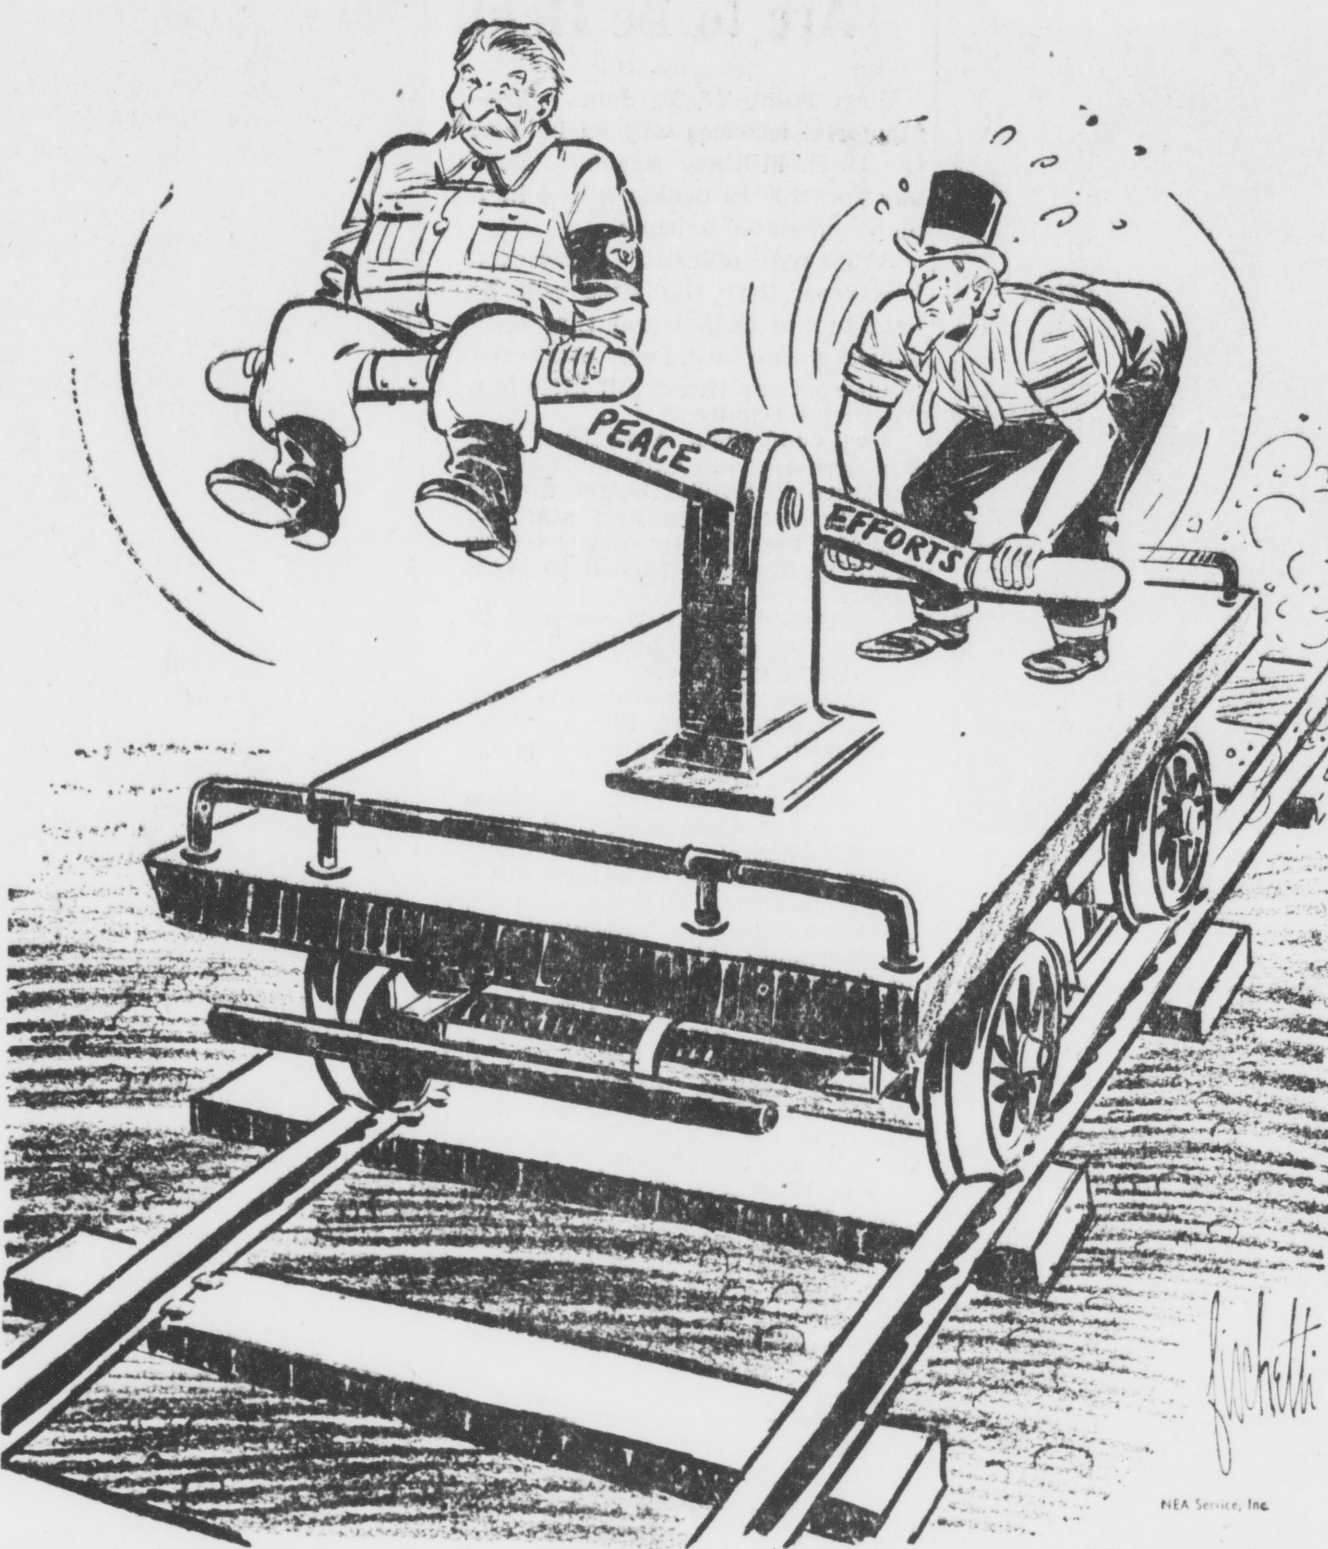

Remember, then, as we grow older, we still need protein—meat, eggs, fish, cooked cereals.

Working on the Railroad

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Members of the Senate elections committee are seriously considering drastic action regarding possible violations of the Corrupt Practices Act by both Democrats and Republicans in the 1950 Ohio campaign which re-elected Senator Taft.

Senators who listened to testimony in the Ohio probe were shocked at the wanton disregard of the law both by Taft's campaign manager, Ben Tate, and by Cyrus Eaton, who used a devious method to contribute $35,000 to John L. Lewis's committee supporting Jumpin' Joe Ferguson, Democrat.

Both Tate and Eaton are big businessmen, with plenty of lawyers to give them legal advice; so investigating senators feel they have no excuse.

Ben Tate of Cincinnati is not only one of Taft's campaign managers, but is a top official of Standard Brands, also president of United Collieries Inc., head of the Diamond Elkhorn Coal Co., Raymond City Coal and Transportation Co., the Snap Creek Coal Co., and various other concerns.

Yet the Senate committee found Tate not only neglected to keep a record of contributions in his private bank box, but couldn't account for $100,000 of the $200,000 that passed through his hands during the campaign. Testifying under oath, Tate admitted cashing campaign checks and keeping the unused cash in a safety deposit box at the Fifth Third Union Trust Company of Cincinnati.

Personal Strongbox

"And that box was taken in the name of whom?" asked Sen. Tom Hennings, Missouri Democrat.

"Ben E. Tate," replied Ben E. Tate.

"And what did you keep in it, Mr. Tate?" pressed Hennings.

"I keep stocks," shrugged Tate. "I don't mean your individual safe deposit box," interrupted Hennings. "Was there one for the campaign?"

"I had two boxes," Tate fidgeted.

"Well, was there one box for the campaign?" prodded Hennings.

"I mean these boxes belong to me. I used my own box for the campaign," Tate came out with it.

"You did keep the campaign funds in your own safe deposit boxes?" asked the senator from Missouri incredulously.

"That is right," admitted Tate. "And cash money, was it?" Hennings asked.

"Yes," nodded Tate's money raiser.

"Why, Mr. Tate?" demanded Hennings.

"So that I could take the money out and buy drafts," was Tate's only explanation.

"What was the money that you kept in the box?" persisted Hennings. "What did it represent, money that you were holding to buy drafts?"

"That is right," agreed Tate.

"Unreported Funds"

"None of that was ever reported either?" inquired Hennings.

"That was reported when we checked," stammered Tate. Then he checked himself and shrugged: "No, I am sorry. I don't know whether it was ever reported."

"And you have no record of how much was kept in the boxes?" hammered the Missouri senator.

"No," confessed Tate.

"Now, such amounts that you collected in your capacity as treasurer and forwarded to other committees, did you report?" asked Hennings.

"No, the record would be in these committees," explained Tate. "I understand from them that these reports have been made, but I have not actually checked them."

"Destroyed Files"

"What is the nature of that understanding?" Hennings inquired sweetly.

"It was just I know these people, and I just . . ." fumbled Tate.

"You just assumed then that they had reported?" suggested Hennings.

"That is right. Having confidence in them, I assumed it," admitted Tate.

"And you have no records whatever of any of these amounts?" Hennings kept firing.

"That is right," admitted the Taft treasurer. "I haven't in my possession any record, but the records are in these committees. That is my opinion, because I have confidence in the members of these committees."

"In forwarding this money to the several committees, did you do so by mail?" Hennings continued his cross-examination.

"Yes," nodded Tate.

"Did you write covering letters?" asked Hennings.

"I don't think I asked them to acknowledge receipt, but I transmitted some by mail, some I gave to them," explained Tate.

"And do you know where any of those covering letters are?" the Missouri senator asked.

"No, I do not," Tate flustered. "They might have been destroyed with the other files, the letters."

"Who destroyed these letters?" demanded Hennings.

"Some of the people in my office that I had instructed them to do," admitted Tate with amazing frankness.

"How much cash for the purpose of distribution to the several committees went through your hands and was not reported by you, but you hope reported by the committees?" asked Hennings.

"I figure a little over $100,000," Tate reported.

"Will you tell us in summation how much money came into your hands for use in the candidacy of Senator Taft for re-election in 1950?" broke in Chairman Guy Gillette, Iowa Democrat.

"Approximately $300,000," estimated Tate.

"When you made your report committee of ours, I gave the money to them, and they reported it, alibied Tate."

"You hope they reported it," corrected Gillette.

Note—The same Ben Tate is again collecting huge sums for senator's presidential campaign. It's a fair question to ask: "How much is going into his private safe deposit box, and what bookkeeping methods are used to keep track of the money?"

Scramble for Presidency Hard to Understand, in View of Confusing Problems

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 4.—There is something incongruous about the scramble in the Republican party for a chance to win the nomination for the presidency when a close look at what confusing and oppressive problems surround the present incumbent of the White House might logically cause everyone else to shun the job.

For the truth is that the presidency has become an almost impossible task for one man. Even with the best intentions in the world, Mr. Truman has sought to meet his responsibilities by delegating power and authority to individual cabinet officers or to heads of agencies. That formula will not work any longer.

For government by delegation to a single cabinet officer is still one-man government. No one man is able nowadays to make all the decisions entrusted to him. The problem, for example, of making international policies today is in reality something for conference and committee or for action by a chosen group.

It is incredible that decisions are made today in Washington in the field of foreign policy by one man—the secretary of state or by one assistant in a specialized field.

It is incredible that the secretary of state makes the decisions that restrict the action of the Department of Defense. It is incredible that there is no national council which actually takes the responsibility for the calculated risks in foreign policy that are interwoven so closely in armament plans and defense policy.

The other day a member of the cabinet of the late President Roosevelt asked the writer if the decision to go into Korea was a wise one.

The answers which this correspondent made are given here merely to illustrate the lack of policy in that all-important situation which has since had consequences in the economic, political and foreign fields. Here is not one but a series of answers to the question: "Should we have gone into Korea?"

1. If intervention in Korea was justified, then the top command in the United States was asleep at the switch. We had no expeditionary force in Japan before hand but merely an occupation army unprepared for any such service as Korea required.

2. If we intended to protect our frontiers in 1950, then the top command should have insisted ahead of time on putting enough naval, air and ground forces in Okinawa or Japan to take care of the emergencies that might come in the Far East in the cold war.

3. If, in intervening in Korea, it was not intended to conduct the operation with maximum force, as General MacArthur or any other purely military man would have recommended, then it was a mistake ever to have gone into Korea.

4. If the decision to intervene in Korea was a sound one, then the U.N. members should have been obliged to supply proportionate forces and, if these were not forthcoming, the American military commander should have been given a free hand to secure his objectives by maximum force.

5. If the United States feared that maximum force in Korea meant a third world war and if fear of a third world war is a justified reason for hesitation, the decision to take no risks should have been made and no committing any troops to Korea.

6. The decision to intervene was justified on the assumption that the U.N. would furnish adequate support. It was worth while making that decision if only to discover that the U.N. is incapable of furnishing collective security and that regional alliances alone can afford no security.

Now, irrespective of whether the foregoing answers will be accepted as persuasive, there can be no doubt that decisions were involved before and after the Korean intervention which should have been appraised not by the President and his secretary of state alone but by a group of state men in the military, the diplomatic and legislative departments of the government. All these calculated risks should have been weighed on a long-range basis before Korea.

The tragedy is that no such top council has been functioning in our government. The National Security Council created by Congress is a paper organization which has not been doing the job intended for it by Congress. The so-called top command is a myth. The lack of collaboration between all factors in government who could formulate a long-range policy is one of the weaknesses in our present system.

Whether a new President of the United States would change this is difficult to conjecture, but the present-day conception of the presidency is outmoded. The British cabinet system is far better in one respect at least—it is a collaboration of the best minds in the majority party, whereas in America the cabinet is just a group of executive administrators who know only their own departmental problems. Eighty billions for armament without a planned foreign policy is like pulling big guns up to the firing lines without range finder or without aerial reconnaissance.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Paris—Benjamin L. Masse, New York Jesuit who for reasons unknown to me, although I once put the question to him, does not use the honorific reverend or father nor initials of his order on his essays, has undertaken to champion the attempt by the AFL and CIO to establish in Europe the equivalent of predatory monopolies that they enjoy back home.

Father Masse, if I may use the title without offense, puts himself in bad company and in strange posture, for he cites as though they were august bodies the executive council and the annual convention of the AFL, and quotes from their outpourings as though it were blasphemous to doubt them.

Surely, however, Father Masse, and again I ask his pardon if I offend, must know, if he knows anything about a subject on which he claims omniscience, that the executive council is a self-perpetuating gang of shameless predators who have betrayed labor, both as a cause and as a human element, and that the AFL itself is distinctly inferior to the College of Cardinals although it exerts greater power with cynical brutality and probably collects more money than the Holy See. The state papers of both of these bodies are hardly comparable to Holy Writ, and honest men within the union movement regard them with axial suspicion but never with awe.

Father Masse does me the distinct favor of taking a round-house swing at me in a recent issue of "America," New York Jesuit publication, thereby dramatizing the fact that the movement he endorses is now a spectacular failure. Father Masse insists that these American rackets, whose character should revolt the moral sense of any decent layman, say nothing of a priest, should "challenge" Pegler for opposing their attempt to repeat in France, Germany, Italy and other European countries the enormities which have made them notorious at home. He doesn't say they should answer me but he wants them to stop me ere I queer their campaign to enslave Europeans like Americans.

Father Masse is asleep on his own story. The fact is this: Georges Meany, secretary-treasurer of the AFL, mournfully intimated on his return to Washington from a luxurious official European tour at the expense of American working stiff who, of course, never were consulted in any phase of this secretive illegal adventure. Had French workers known the ugly truth of the criminal conduct of American unions and their shocking brutality toward the rank and file, they might have rounded up the agents who have been agitating vainly here and thrown them into the Seine. But the fact is French labor is simply indifferent and largely unorganized.

What Irving Brown, described as the principal ambassador of David Dubinsky of the Garment Workers' Union and Victor Reuther, brother of Walter, boss of millions of subjects in the UAW, overlooked in their early optimism is the absence of anything remotely comparable to the Wagner and Taft-Hartley laws whereby unions in the United States received powers never voted to any political or religious force in any country, and often exercised in outrageous excesses which Father Masse as a priest should condemn for moral reasons within the intelligence of any six-year-old.

There is a union bureau here with the power or effrontery to drag a quavering, puzzled employer before a kangaroo court sitting as complaining witness, prosecutor, jury, and judge, and inflict legal punishment on the employer for informing the workers that the money they represent them is simply a racket of Capone gangsters or a traitorous Muscovite apparatus as the Labor Relations Board could be before the Taft-Hartley law. The contest here is between Communists dominating the French General Confederation of Labor and the feeble disjointed number of

Man is inclined to behave in a rather cocky manner as he sums up his superlative scientific conquests of his material world. But just when he is about to become insufferable, nature takes him down several rungs on the ladder.

Weather seems to be nature's chief weapon for administering these rebuffs. And right now one of these little lessons is in progress. Snow, the lovely white stuff that does so much for Christmas, isn't doing much good for man in some of our key cities these days.

Look at Chicago, for instance. Chicagoans have watched upwards of 30 inches of snow descend upon them during the past month, and most of it is still on the ground. Altogether they've had nearly 50 inches since the season began.

The transportation officials are fed up. They've spent $600,000 already in trying to keep buses and street cars rolling, but it's been largely a losing battle. Marooned automobiles block plowing efforts in many spots. Side streets are a bold adventure to any motorist. Hardly a one does not echo continually the whine of spinning tires trapped in churned-up drifts.

Snow removal authorities complain they can't find places to dump the snow they strip from the streets. The usual dumping grounds are loaded, and there's little melting to make room for more.

The thick mantle has almost smothered the city's normal doings. Countless business and social engagements haven't come off. Industry and commerce are slowed. The filling station proprietors are muttering about the 20 to 25 per cent drop in gasoline sales.

Things are no better in Detroit, another industrial whopper. Some 32 inches has been the city's total snowfall since November 1. Virtually all of that fell in a two-week period. Weather officials can't remember a worse winter in the 52-year-old history of Detroit's Weather Bureau.

A motor manufacturer laid 6,000 men off their jobs recently because trains and trucks hampered by snow couldn't keep the plant supplied with parts. Elsewhere in the city, it was like the Chicago story in main details.

Cities like Chicago and Detroit couldn't keep enough snow-removal equipment on hand to deal forcefully with nature when she is in so abundant a mood. So they stay half immobilized for days, possibly weeks, waiting for a warm sun to do what men in all their technical glory seem unable to do.

Anyone who has been in a giant metropolis when the snow was piled high can grasp what a feeling of helplessness grips the city which is weighted with such a burden. Human values are altered, too. What seemed important in a time of clear streets suddenly appears much less so in an hour of urban paralysis. The simplest acts of getting about become major enterprises. Life is measured in terms of only the most elemental necessities.

Yes, there is nothing like a few 10-foot snowdrifts to compel man to take stock and see himself in slightly humbler perspective.

SYMPATHY FROM RUSSIA

Premier Josef Stalin of Russia sent to the Japanese people a message of sympathy for their plight under American occupation.

If the recent reports we have had from Japan are accurate, the people there are not feeling any great need of sympathy. They have made, in fact, one of the most rapid recoveries any people ever made after defeat in an extended war, and have acquired individual liberties and privileges never before enjoyed, as well as a standard of living which, for the average family, must be at least as good as it was during the period of Japanese conquest.

Perhaps it would be more in order for Japan to send to the Russian people sympathy for their condition under communism.

The person who complains that he has no appetite for his food is not nearly so badly off as the one who has no food for his appetite.

THE NEXT CONGRESS

The second session of the 82nd Congress which now meets is not likely to be productive of great legislative measures; yet it may prove to be one of the most important in our history.

President Truman has lost the leadership of his party. His so-called "program," a medley of socialistic and class measures, designed to catch bloc votes, will not even get a hearing. The economic fantasies of his economic adviser, Leon Keyserling, have whiffed off into the cloudy miasma whence they came. The Democratic leadership in the Senate is no longer unified. It is each man for himself—particularly those senators who require re-election.

In the House, the confusion is equally general. The success of Congressman Cecil King's subcommittee in uncovering corruption has whetted many an appetite for similar service and acclaim. There is likely to be committee competition in this field.

In the Senate, the Republicans remain under the leadership of Senator Robert A. Taft, except that the Eisenhower contingent, particularly those who are vice-presidential hopefuls, will seek to clip Taft's wings. They will be treated without too much courtesy as the convention approaches. The stalwarts of Republican New Dealism, Duff of Pennsylvania, Lodge and Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Morse of Oregon and Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, will find little comfort within their own party, no matter how much praise they get among the intellectual hill-billies of Park Avenue.

It will be a tough, noisy Congress. The McCarran Committee is the one to watch most keenly. It has the goods. Owen Lattimore's testimony will have to be tested against the files taken from E. C. Carter's barn. John Carter Vincent will have an opportunity to testify in January. Before this committee is through with its work, several great American reputations will be tarnished if not wrecked. On the constructive side, this committee will have established the Russian pattern of infiltration into our government.

Next in importance will be the hearings before the Gillette Committee into Senator William Benton's charges against Senator Joe McCarthy. To the Democrats, Senator Benton's charges are a political headache because they may result in a Republican victory in Connecticut. The hearing centers on Senator McCarthy's Wheeling (W. Va.) speech and the mixed testimony as to what he actually said. Senator McCarthy is using this investigation to win in Wisconsin.

The burden of taxes, while some evade them, has proved embarrassing to many members of Congress, particularly those who went home during the Christmas holidays. Without regard to partisanship, those members of the Senate or House who come up for re-election cannot vote for increased taxes. Most of them will have to make some reasonable and articulate evidence that they favor not only punishment for fraud and tax evasions, but the collection of money due. For obviously, the rest of us are more because some do not pay enough and some not at all.

The President will probably fight off any investigation by a congressional committee of actual income tax returns. To so-called practical politicians it will not be so important that the returns should actually be examined as that they should propose that it should be done. It is believed, in Washington, that many important persons have made only nominal returns. Therefore, this issue becomes strictly political in an election year.

Meanwhile, Representative Frederic R. Coudert, Jr., will introduce two measures which, if they are not treated with consideration, will become campaign issues. One measure will be to assist individuals to provide financial security upon retirement and to make provisions for surviving members of their families by allowing an income tax deduction for premiums paid on annuity and life insurance contracts.

This is the sanest and most generally fair measure to assist the "white collar class" and provide for their old age, as the obsolescence of machines is already provided for. Is not a man as worthy as a machine? The measure will not require anyone to join a union, guild or association, as Senator Ives and Representative Coudert proposed last year upon instigation of a bar association committee.

The other measure is designed:

"First: To compel the establishment of a balanced budget for 1953 based upon the present high tax rates; and

"Second: Take a first step in the direction of reduction in annual expenditures to the end that intolerable tax rates may be presently reduced and a beginning made of the reduction of the national debt."

It would limit expenditures to $71,000,000,000, no matter who wants to spend more, for what-ever reason.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

NUTRITION FOR OLDER PERSONS

Many men and women, as they grow older, feel that meat is not good for them, that as they do not work hard physically, there is little need for meat and other proteins—eggs, fowl and fish. Specialists in foods and nutrition remind us that proteins are needed from infancy to old age.

In The Canadian Journal of Public Health, Toronto, Dr. E. W. McHenry states that the health of older persons is becoming of increasing concern as the percentage of these persons increases in the population. "Protein is one type of food constituent that older persons frequently neglect; meat, cheese and milk are unlikely to be eaten in adequate amounts. This neglect is due to a mistaken notion that meat is harmful for older persons. Little or no cheese is eaten because of the old wives' tale that cheese is indigestible and constipating. Little milk is taken because these persons grew up in an age when the value of milk was not appreciated."

While it is generally known that meat is needed for growth, it is not generally realized that the wear and tear on body tissues which must be replaced makes it necessary that meat or other protein be eaten every day if the strength of the body tissues is to be maintained.

Dr. McHenry also points out that many older persons, in addition to eating an insufficient amount of the protein foods, also neglect to eat enough of the foods containing calcium (milk, cheese, and leafy vegetables, egg yolk, and also enough of the foods containing iron—meat (liver), whole grains, leafy vegetables and egg yolk.

Almost daily we can see the results in older persons who do not eat enough calcium. If the amount of calcium in the blood is low, there is frequent weakening and breaking of the bones, which take a long time to knit.

Most vitamins are needed as much in age as in youth.

In her book "Nutrition and Physical Fitness," Dr. Jean Bogert also suggests that meat be eaten by older persons, being chopped fine if necessary.

In general, the diet best adapted to the alimentary (stomach and intestines) tract of the aged closely resembles that recommended for children—namely milk and eggs, thoroughly cooked cereals, stale bread, toast or crackers, fruits and vegetables (cooked or strained if necessary), soups, the simple desserts (custards, blanc mange, cereal puddings) with mild stimulants such as tea, coffee and meat broths, which are not permissible for young children.

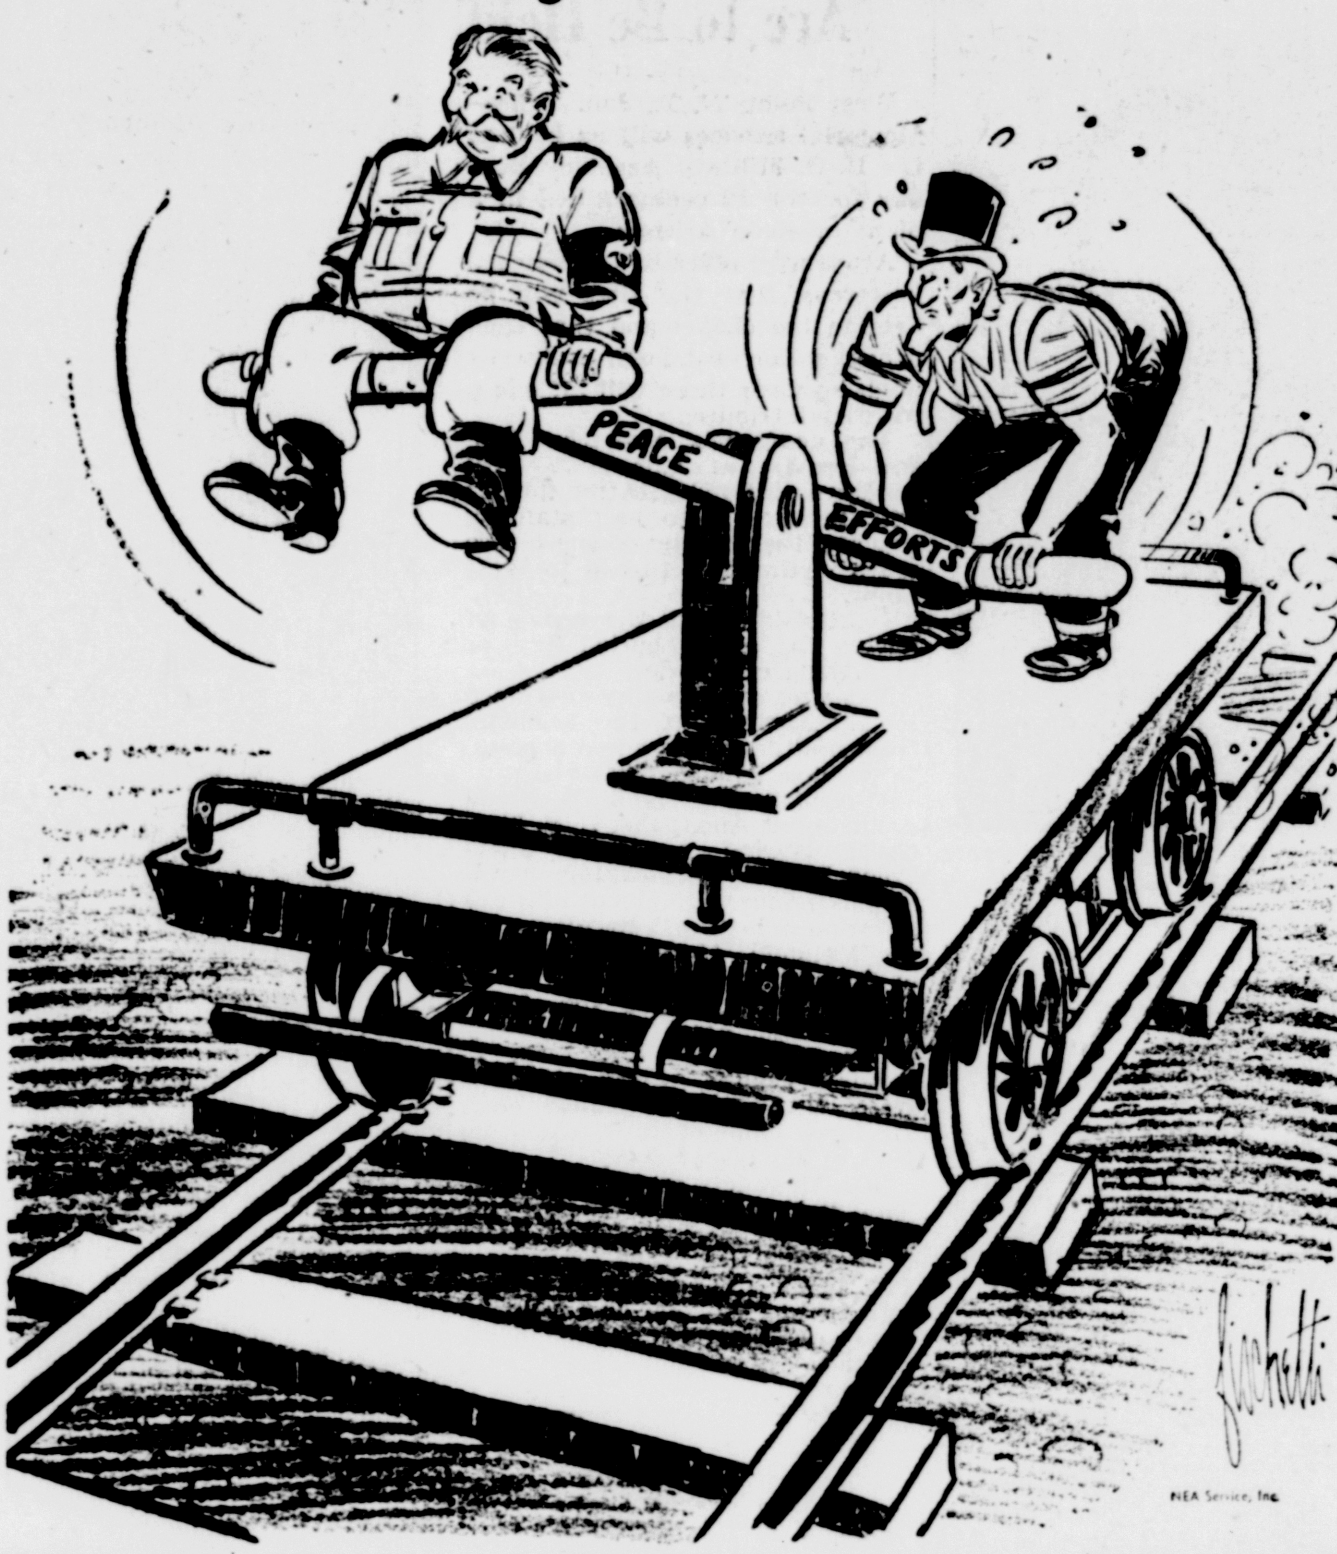

Remember, then, as we grow older, we still need protein—meat, eggs, fish, cooked cereals.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Members of the Senate elections committee are seriously considering drastic action regarding possible violations of the Corrupt Practices Act by both Democrats and Republicans in the 1950 Ohio campaign which re-elected Senator Taft.

Senators who listened to testimony in the Ohio probe were shocked at the wanton disregard of the law both by Taft's campaign manager, Ben Tate, and by Cyrus Eaton, who used a devious method to contribute $35,000 to John L. Lewis's committee supporting Jumpin' Joe Ferguson, Democrat.

Both Tate and Eaton are big businessmen, with plenty of lawyers to give them legal advice; so investigating senators feel they have no excuse.

Ben Tate of Cincinnati is not only one of Taft's campaign managers, but is a top official of Standard Brands, also president of United Collieries Inc., head of the Diamond Elkhorn Coal Co., Raymond City Coal and Transportation Co., the Snap Creek Coal Co., and various other concerns.

Yet the Senate committee found Tate not only neglected to keep a record of contributions in his private bank box, but couldn't account for $100,000 of the $300,000 that passed through his hands during the campaign. "Approximately $300,000," estimated Tate.

"When you made your report . . . why did you not report the sums that you had received up to approximately $300,000?" demanded Gillette.

"Because the subsidiary committee of ours, I gave the money to them, and they reported it," alighted Tate.

"You hope they reported it," corrected Gillette.

Note—The same Ben Tate is again collecting huge sums for Senator's presidential campaign. It's a fair question to ask: "How much is going into his private safe deposit box, and what bookkeeping methods are used to keep track of the money?"

Washington, Jan. 4—There is something incongruous about the scramble in the Republican party for a chance to win the nomination for the presidency when a close look at what confusing and oppressive problems surround the present incumbent of the White House might logically cause everyone else to shun the job.

For the truth is the presidency has become an almost impossible task for one man. Even with the best intentions in the world, Mr. Truman has sought to meet his responsibilities by delegating power and authority to individual cabinet officers or to heads of agencies. That formula will not work any longer.

For government by delegation to a single cabinet officer is still one-man government. No one man is able nowadays to make all the decisions entrusted to him. The problem, for example, of making international policies today is in reality something for conference and committee or for action by a chosen group.

It is incredible that decisions are made today in Washington in the field of foreign policy by one man—the secretary of state or by one assistant in a specialized field.

It is incredible that the secretary of state makes the decisions that restrict the action of the Department of Defense.

It is incredible that there is no national council which actually takes the responsibility for the calculated risks in foreign policy that are interwoven so closely in armament plans and defense policy.

The other day a member of the cabinet of the late President Roosevelt asked the writer if the decision to go into Korea was a wise one.

The answers which this correspondent made are given here merely to illustrate the lack of policy in that all-important situation which has since had consequences that have affected America in the economic, political and foreign fields. Here is not one but a series of answers to the question: "Should we have gone into Korea?"

1. If intervention in Korea was justified, then the top command in the United States was asked at the switch. We had no expeditionary force in Japan before hand but merely an occupation army unprepared for any such service as Korea required.

2. If we intended to protect our frontiers in 1950, then the top command should have insisted ahead of time on putting enough naval, air and ground forces in Okinawa or Japan to take care of the emergencies that might come in the Far East in the cold war.

3. If, in intervening in Korea, the present-day conception of the presidency is outmoded. The British cabinet system is far better in one respect at least—it is a collaboration of the best minds in the ablest men in the military, the diplomatic and the legislative departments of the government. All these calculated risks should have been weighed on a long-range basis before Korea.

The tragedy is that no such top council has been functioning in our government. The National Security Council created by Congress is a paper organization which has not been doing the job intended for it by Congress. The so-called top command is a myth. The lack of collaboration between all factors in government who could formulate a long-range policy is one of the weaknesses in our present system.

Whether a new President of the United States would change this is difficult to conjecture, but the present-day conception of the presidency is outmoded. The British cabinet system is far better in one respect at least—it is a collaboration of the best minds in the ablest men in the military, the diplomatic and the legislative departments of the government. All these calculated risks should have been weighed on a long-range basis before Korea.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Paris—Benjamin L. Masse, New York Jesuit who for reasons unknown to me, although I once put the question to him, does not use the honorific reverend or father nor initials of his order on his essays, has undertaken to champion the attempt by the AFL and CIO to establish in Europe the equivalent of predatory monopolies that they enjoy back home.

Father Masse, if I may use the title without offense, puts himself in bad company and in strange posture, for he cites as though they were august bodies the executive council and the annual convention of the AFL, and quotes from their outgoing, as though it were blasphemous to doubt them.

Surely, however, Father Masse, and again I ask his pardon if I offend, must know, if he knows anything about a subject on which he claims omniscience, that the executive council is a self-perpetuating gang of shameless predators who have betrayed labor, both as a cause and as a human element, and that the AFL itself is distinctly inferior to the College of Cardinals although it exerts greater power with cynical brutality and probably collects more money than the Holy See.

The state papers of both of these bodies are hardly comparable to Holy Writ, and honest men within the union movement regard them with jovial suspicion but never with awe.

Father Masse does me the distinct favor of taking a round-house swing at me in a recent issue of "America," New York Jesuit publication, thereby dramatizing the fact that the movement he endorses is now a spectacular failure. Father Masse insists that these American rackets, whose character should revolt the moral sense of any decent layman, to say nothing of a priest, should "challenge" Pegler for opposing their attempt to repeat in France, Germany, Italy and other European countries the enormities which have made them notorious at home. He doesn't say they could answer me but he wants them to stop me ere I queer their campaign to enslave Europeans like Americans.

Father Masse is asleep on his own story. The fact is this: attempt already has flopped, as the AFL secretary-treasurer of the AFL, mournfully intimated on his return to Washington from a luxurious official European tour at the expense of American working stiff who, of course, never were consulted in any phase of this secretive illegal adventure. Had French workers known the ugly truth of the criminal conduct of American unions and their shocking brutality toward the rank and file, they might have rounded up the agents who have been agitating vainly here and thrown them into the Seine. But the fact is French labor is simply indifferent and largely unorganized.

What Irving Brown, described as the principal ambassador of Dave Dubinsky of the Garment Workers' Union, and Victor Reuther, brother of Walter, boss of millions of subjects in the UAW, overlooked in their early optimism is the absence of anything remotely comparable to the Wagner act in France, Italy and elsewhere by unions in the United States received powers never voted to any civic, political or religious force in any free country and often exercised in outrageous excesses which Father Masse as a priest should condemn for moral reasons within the intelligence of any six-year-old.

There is a union bureau here with the power or effrontery to drag a citizen, puzzled employer before a kangaroo court sitting as complaining witness, prosecutor, jury, and judge, and inflict legal punishment on the employer for informing the workers that the union seeking to represent them is simply a racket of Capone gangsters or a traitorous Moscowite apparatus.

The Labor Relations Board could before the Taft-Hartley law. The contest here is between Communists dominating the French General Confederation of Labor and the feeble disjointed number of Employers, after their frightening experience under Leon Blum when the 40-hour week often became a no-hour week, are now resorting to the amusing system of baby kissing.

When a worker's wife has a baby, the personnel chief reaches into his cabinet, extracts a silver baby cup with an appropriate name like Pierre, Michel, Marie or Gabrielle and sends it by messenger with an autographed letter from the superintendent of the plant extending greetings to the new member of his great big happy family. One official supervisor of employee relations gravely reports there are usually dignified appreciative replies and from this and similar ventures into human relations there has developed a degree of friendship under which workers regard Communists as fools or as evil enemies.

Strangely, however, Communists have a reputation as good workers, which probably puzzled Reuther on his visits to French plants making machinery in view of the systematic slowdowns, stalling, and whistle-jumping which Communists introduced into American factories with a consequent incalculable loss of production and national income.

Many found the French simply didn't give a dam about unions except where autonomous locals were accepted as a means of keeping them out of Communist hands. Often both Communist unions and autonomous locals do business at the same bargaining table with the same employers, and corporations have taken the play away from unionists which in the United States Dubinsky's empire claims as its legally protected prerogative, thus keeping employers and workers constantly estranged.

Dubinsky's and Reuther's ventures in France are both definitely lost now despite paltry misrepresentations.

Ten Tall Men Opens At Local Theatre Jan. 6

Burt Lancaster, one of the top action stars of the screen, is cast as a tough, hard-bitten sergeant of the French Foreign Legion in Columbia Pictures' Ten Tall Men, which has its local premiere at the Kingston Walter Reade Theatre on Sunday.

Lancaster's supporting cast includes Jody Lawrence in the feminine lead; Gilbert, Roland, Kieron Moore and George Tobias. Ten Tall Men was filmed in color by Technicolor.

Ten Tall Men concerns a perilous desert mission commanded by Lancaster. To thwart an impending Riff attack on a French-held town, Lancaster and the nine other Legionnaires of the title endure desert hardships, the attacks of the Riffs and an interminable conflict over the beautiful Riff princess whom Lancaster has captured and held as a hostage.

Roland Kibbee and Frank Davis scripted Ten Tall Men for the screen. Willis Goldbeck directed the desert adventure, a Norma Production, for producer Harold Hecht.

Ten Tall Men Opens
At Local Theatre Jan. 6

Burt Lancaster, one of the top action stars of the screen, is cast as a tough, hard-bitten sergeant of the French Foreign Legion in Columbia Pictures' Ten Tall Men, which has its local premiere at the Kingston Walter Reade Theatre on Sunday. Lancaster's supporting cast includes Jody Lawrence in the feminine lead; Gilbert Roland, Kieron Moore and George Tobias. Ten Tall Men was filmed in color by Technicolor.

Ten Tall Men concerns a perilous desert mission commanded by Lancaster. To thwart an impending Ruff attack on a French-held town, Lancaster and the nine other Legionnaires of the title endure desert hardships, the attacks of the Ruffs and an internecine conflict over the beautiful Ruff princess whom Lancaster has captured and held as a hostage.

Roland Kibbee and Frank Davis scripted Ten Tall Men for the screen. Willis Goldbeck directed the desert adventure, a Norma Production, for producer Harold Hecht.

Why Make Child Pay Price For What We Can't Afford?

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Linda's mother has been cross and out of sorts ever since an excellent but expensive nursery school has opened in her neighborhood. Around 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when her restless child asks if it isn't time for her friend Ruthie to be coming home from nursery school, her mother reacts irritably.

She says: "For heaven's sake, stop moaning around this house! No, it's not time yet. Go and play—and stop looking as though you'd lost your last friend on earth! You had your chance to go to nursery school with Kate—but you didn't like the way it cooked carrots. Don't blame me because you're lonely. If you'd eaten carrots like the other children at the school, you could be there playing with Ruthie right now."

This isn't the real truth. The real truth is that Linda's father didn't think the nursery school experience was worth the $400 he preferred to pay down on a new car. The real truth is that Linda's mother was uncertain that it was worth $400 herself.

She sent her little daughter to the nursery school, not because she believed in its value, but because all the other mothers in her neighborhood were sending their children. So, without a real case for nursery school to present to Linda, she was relieved when Linda objected to the carrots. It gave her an excuse to take Linda out of the school and avoid arguments with her husband.

If Linda's mother had really believed in the value of a nursery school experience, she would have taken her child's distaste for the carrots quite differently.

She would have said: "All right, my lamb, don't eat carrots again; eat something else." Then she would have arranged to take the following week's menu home with her so that she could discuss it with Linda and present the nursery school's nutrition ideas as thrilling adventures into unexplored delights.

What Linda's mother has done is most unjust. She has made a decision she does not believe in, reversed it for her own private interest—and blames Linda for the action she herself wished to take.

She is cross and out of sorts because she knows that she's been unfair, and this knowledge makes her defensive and unkind.

DON'T PASS THE BUCK TO CHILDREN

We often take our doubts of our own decisions out on children. Against our better judgment, we let young Bill persuade us to buy him an elaborate football outfit. When he loses the helmet, our reaction is all out of proportion to a child's carelessness. We see the loss through the enlarging lens of our husband's "I told you so"—and take out our anger at ourselves on Bill.

Or we make Alice pay a price for the music lessons we can't afford. Our fear that we have made an unwise decision drives us to make a horror of music to Alice. We want her to prove that our decision was right, so we persecute her in the matter of piano practice until she wishes the man who invented pianos had died in childhood.

If we are not able to buy nursery schools, football outfits and piano lessons confidently and happily, we shouldn't buy them. If we decide we can afford them—that it's right to buy them—then we should stand by the failure or success of our decisions—and not pass the buck, if they fail, to children.

There's nothing to be guilty or anxious about if we can't afford expensive advantages for them. Children have done without nursery schools, football outfits and piano lessons for many centuries. Ours can manage without them, too. But they cannot possibly manage without love and justice.

If we cannot purchase material advantages without doubt and anxiety, we should forget them because then they will not be advantages to Linda, Bill or Alice, but very serious disadvantages.

The strain and struggle to keep up with the Jones' children deprives our own young ones of the basic advantages of our self-confidence and peace of mind.

Hornets Kill Two Boys

Singapore, (AP)—Two Chinese boys, 11 and 10, recently were stung to death here by a swarm of hornets. They were playing on the clay basketball court in their school yard when the hornets attacked them. Minutes later, they were picked up unconscious near the basketball court. Both died in hospital without regaining consciousness.

They had been stung on their head, legs and arms and a number of hornets were found imbedded in their skin.

2,000 Leghorns Observed

Recent observations of over 2,000 leghorns at Cornell University show that deaths from tumors and leukosis were twice as great in the poorly fleshed birds as in the well-fleshed birds.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

OBVIOUSLY, THEY WERE JEALOUS!

A very human question is the following: "If a girl has already made an appointment to go to the movies with several girl friends, and a boy asks her for a date for the same evening, is she being rude in cancelling her appointment with the girls and going with the boy? I did this recently and am now in 'Dutch' with these girl friends for doing so. I'd like to know whether you think I was wrong."

If your date had been with one girl alone and she was obliged to sit alone because you didn't go with her, then you would be decidedly have been in the wrong. But to leave a group of girls and go with a man whom you especially like, should have been understood.

Passing People in a Theatre
Dear Mrs. Post: When seated in a theatre, should you rise to let others pass or let them crowd by you?

Answer: When there is no room in front of you and people are sitting on either side of you, it is necessary to stand. If there is a vacant seat next to you, you can usually turn your knees toward the vacant seat sufficiently to make plenty of room.

Hostess Waits for Guests

Dear Mrs. Post: At a buffet meal, is the hostess supposed to wait until everyone has been taken care of before she fills a plate for herself?

Answer: She would not necessarily go from person to person to make sure that everyone is eating before she fills her own plate, but she would certainly be among the last to help herself.

Who Is Head?

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me who is considered head of the table—the husband or wife?

Answer: The wife is head of the table, and the husband is head of the house.

Is your question about a double wedding ceremony? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer your personal mail, but her leaflet E-2, "Formal Wedding Procedure," includes details for double weddings. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin, to her care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Junior Marrieds Met Last Night at YWCA

The Junior Married Women's Club met at the YWCA last night. Following a brief business meeting, a social hour was enjoyed by the members.

Mrs. Fred Port, president, presided and reminded those present that the annual meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association would take place Tuesday, Jan. 29, at 7:30 p. m. All members of the organization have been invited to attend the meeting and Mrs. Port explained that those who sign the Y pledge will be electors with the privilege of voting for the directors to be elected. At the annual meeting, too, a resume of the 1951 year will be given and plans for 1952 discussed.

A merchandise club will be started during the month of March to assist in raising money for the Junior Marrieds Club. The catalog will be available at all meetings.

Hostesses for the evening were the Meses. Charles Jones, Theodore Wood and Leroy Weber.

Former Residents Will Be Invited to Tercentennial

Former Kingstonians who have taken up residence elsewhere will be invited to attend Homecoming Days which will be held this year in connection with the tercentennial celebration of the settlement of Kingston.

The difficult task of contacting these people is part of the Homecoming Committee's duty and Jacob H. Tremper, chairman of that committee, has issued an appeal for residents, or former residents, who may know the whereabouts of former residents to send such information to the committee so that proper recognition of these former residents may be assured.

There are many people who formerly lived in Kingston who have lost contact with the city. It is hoped that the Homecoming Committee will be able to locate these people and have them return to Kingston to take a part in the celebration.

Seeks Addresses

Jacob H. Tremper, chairman of the committee, asks that anyone knowing the address of former residents contact him at his office 42 Main street or notify the Chamber of Commerce so that an invitation may be forwarded.

Present plans call for the holding of Homecoming Day some weekend during July which will be the height of the tercentennial celebration activities. While the tentative date has been set for a weekend near the end of July, the exact date will be announced as soon as definitely fixed.

Anyone who can supply the names of any former Kingstonians who might be interested in returning to have a part in the celebration, need not wait until the date has been definitely set but is asked to notify the committee now of such information.

Engaged to Florist

MISS NAN CHASE

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Chase of 15 Dederick street announce the engagement of their daughter, Nan Margaret, to Bernard Paul Jones, a florist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Jones, 5 Jefferson Place. No date has been set for the wedding.

Miss Chase is a graduate of Kingston High School. Mr. Jones was graduated from Kingston High School and the Long Island School of Horticulture in Farmingdale and is employed by Charles E. Brown & Son, florists.

The wedding will be held at a date to be definitely set but is asked to notify the committee now of such information.

'Kingston Sign Up Week' for State Tournament Set January 6-12

Tournament Committee Seeks 100-Team Local Entry for 1952 Championships

"Kingston Sign Up Week" for the 1952 New York State bowling championships in Kingston was announced today by Addison Jones, tournament manager, who said a drive would be made between January 6 and January 12 to recruit 100 local squads for the tournament.

Jones' announcement came shortly after receipt of a request from the Rochester City Association for reservations for "between 175 and 200 teams."

Rochester, a bulwark in state bowling since the inception of the state tournament, annually sends about 200 teams to the meet, but up until yesterday had reserved only four squads for the Kingston tournament.

Jones and Joe Magnino, KBA president and schedule secretary of the tournament, expressed great satisfaction in the Rochester decision.

"This means we now have nearly 1200 teams in the fold," Magnino said, "and things look a lot brighter than they did yesterday."

"Kingston Sign Up Week" will endeavor to recruit every available five-man squad (and singles and doubles) for the state championships, Jones pointed out.

"We'll have representatives of the tournament committee at all alleys during the week, with entry blanks and all the information needed."

Jones said he believed there was an excellent chance that the great industrial leagues like Electrol Inc. and Hercules might enter their entire membership.

The No-Can-Do League, a traditional "100 percent" is also a sure bet to enlist its eight teams.

Cites Eligibility
The tournament manager warned that the state regulations permit only one entry per person in any event.

"This means," Jones said, "that many bowlers will have to decide between a couple of teams and, in some cases among several. We urged several months ago that they give some thought to this problem and we hope that all bowlers have made that choice."

All Kingston teams in the state tournament are tentatively scheduled to roll on Wednesday and Thursday at the Ferraro Bowl-drome. The weekend dates of Friday, Saturday and Sunday are reserved for teams beyond a 50-mile radius.

"Our goal of 100 teams is not an easy one," Jones added, "but since we are the smallest city ever to be host to a state tournament, we must be better than any small city in the state."

"The state tournament means a great deal to the city," the tournament manager went on, "and for this one time every bowling team and sponsor will have to go all out just a bit more than usual."

"If everybody cooperates we should attain our goal of 100 teams from within the KBA membership," he concluded.

Greenberg-Weiss Feud Looms on DiMag Issue
New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—How will the world champion New York Yankees do without the retired Joe DiMaggio this year?

"Lucky to finish in the first division," thinks Cleveland Indians' general manager Hank Greenberg.

That started what today looked like a merry feud between Greenberg and George Weiss, general manager of the Yankees.

When Weiss heard Greenberg's remarks, he snorted: "It would appear that Mr. Greenberg is doing an excellent job of whistling his way past the graveyard of the Cleveland 1951 collapse."

Greenberg maintained that DiMaggio "was still a great center fielder. The Yanks are just an ordinary ball club without him."

Said Weiss: "We would have been rather disappointed if Mr. Greenberg had picked the Yankees to finish at the top of the league in 1952 for his record as a prognosticator has been very good. Didn't he predict that the Indians would win the pennant last year by seven games?"

Port Ewen Scores 83-15 Win in Church League
Two big splurges of 21 points in the opening period of play and 28 more in the final quarter sparked the Port Ewen Presentation eagles to an easy 83 to 15 victory over the Tigers in the Junior Church Basketball League at the MJM gym Wednesday.

Van Bramer, forward for the winners, paced both clubs in the scoring column with 39 points on 18 fields and three free tosses. Ward and Beaver followed with 13 and 12 apiece.

Lessick was high scorer for the Bengals with six points.

Violet Streak Shattered, 100-75

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—The nation's longest basketball winning streak—12 straight by New York University—was at an end today because a red-hot aggregation of Mountaineers from West Virginia capitalized on the expert scouting of their coach.

It happened in Madison Square Garden last night when West Virginia thumped NYU, 100-75, for the Mountaineers' seventh triumph in eight outings. Their only defeat was an overtime setback by George Washington.

And off their great shooting against the Violets, it is difficult to envision any team whipping the fast stepping Mountaineers. They dropped in 50 per cent of their field goal attempts—27 out of 54.

For Mountaineers, the maximum scholarship to non-Kentuckians will be five a year.

Coach Paul Bryant announced the change in the recruiting policy a few minutes after his squad returned from Dallas and its Cotton Bowl victory over Texas Christian.

Christians said the idea was his own. It applied only to football and "we have concluded that the best interest will now be served by a change in this policy," Kentucky in the past has gone far afield in lining up football talent.

"We are confident," Bryant added, "that if other institutions will follow this plan, all the evils attendant on recruiting will be ended."

With de-emphasis of collegiate football being talked in some quarters, observers pondered the effect, if any, the Kentucky plan might have elsewhere. Could it be the forerunner of a new trend?

Would the plan be brought before the National Collegiate Athletic Association meeting next week? Could some states supply

IBC Boxers to Get Free Insurance
Chicago, Jan. 4 (AP)—The International Boxing Club and its radio-television sponsor plan to provide free insurance for all boxers in IBC matches the Illinois Athletic Commission said yesterday.

Joseph Triner, IAB chairman, said an insurance program being worked out for Illinois bouts will provide $10,000 for a fighter's heirs if he is killed in the ring, plus full protection against ring-incurred injuries.

Truman Gibson, secretary of the IBC, confirmed the arrangements. He said similar coverage will be provided in other states in which the IBC promotes professional fights.

Van Bramer Sets Church League Scoring Record With 39 Points Against AZA's
Vince Van Bramer poured 39 points through the hoop to set an all-time Church Basketball League record as the Port Ewen Presentation rolled up a seasonal high in points to drub AZA, 84 to 15.

The Port Ewen center hit with 18 fields and three fouls. He reeled off quarter totals of 4-11-9-15.

Vince Ward scored 13 points and Jack Beaver had a dozen for the winners and Don Ferraro tossed in 10. Irwin Lessick led the losers with six.

Port Ewen turned the game into a rout in the first quarter, rolling up a 21-3 edge. They blanked the AZA, 20-0, in the third period.

Kentucky Restricts Future Recruiting Of Gridders to Within State Boundary

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 4 (AP)—The talent for local demands? Bryant drew praise from several coaches in the Southeastern Conference, but none indicated he would follow the Kentucky proposal 100 per cent.

Out-of-state players have been the bloodstream in Kentucky's rise in six years from a South-eastern Conference dorm to national prominence, and Bryant acknowledged it this way:

"We shall ever be grateful to these men for the contributions they have made to whatever success we have attained."

Some outsiders gained national prominence at Kentucky—All-American Doug Moseley and Bob Gain, and Vito Parrilli, who re-wrote many passing records.

Bryant spoke of the wide range recruiting Kentucky has employed and said, "whatever merit this program had is has subjected the university and many other institutions to criticism from colleges and universities in neighboring states. If persisted in, the good relations between Kentucky and her neighbors would deteriorate and the good name of Kentucky would suffer."

The out-of-state players who are on scholarship—some of them have three years of eligibility left—will be retained. The five grants in aid to outsiders will go in the main to sons and brothers of alumni.

The new plan is effective at once, Bryant said it would take four years to determine the result.

'Kingston Sign Up Week' for State Tournament Set January 6-12

Tournament Committee Seeks 100-Team Local Entry for 1952 Championships

"Kingston Sign Up Week" for the 1952 New York State bowling championships in Kingston was announced today by Addison Jones, tournament manager, who said a drive would be made between January 6 and January 12 to recruit 100 local squads for the tournament.

Jones' announcement came shortly after receipt of a request from the Rochester City Association for reservations for "between 175 and 200 teams."

Rochester, a bulwark in state bowling since the inception of the state tournament, annually sends about 200 teams to the meet, but up until yesterday had reserved only four squads for the Kingston tournament.

Jones and Joe Magnino, KBA president and schedule secretary of the tournament, expressed great satisfaction in the Rochester decision.

"This means we now have nearly 1200 teams in the fold," Magnino said, "and things look a lot brighter than they did yesterday."

"Kingston Sign Up Week" will endeavor to recruit every available five-man squad (singles and doubles) for the state championships, Jones pointed out.

"We'll have representatives of the tournament committee at all alleys during the week, with entry blanks and all the information needed."

Jones said he believed there was an excellent chance that the great industrial leagues like Electrol Inc. and Hercules might enter their entire membership.

The No-Can-Do League, a traditional "100 percent" is also a sure bet to enlist its eight teams.

Cites Eligibility
The tournament manager warned that the state regulations permit only one entry per person in any event.

"This means," Jones said, "that many bowlers will have to decide between a couple of teams and, in some cases among several. We urged several months ago that they give some thought to this problem and we hope that all bowlers have made that choice."

All Kingston teams in the state tournament are tentatively scheduled to roll on Wednesdays and Thursdays at the Veterans Bowldrome. The weekend dates of Friday, Saturday and Sunday are reserved for teams beyond a 50-mile radius.

"Our goal of 100 teams is not an easy one," Jones added, "but since we are the smallest city ever to be host to a state tournament, we must be better than any small city in the state."

"The state tournament means a great deal to the city," the tournament manager went on, "and for this one time every bowling team and sponsor will have to go all out just a bit more than usual. If everybody cooperates we should attain our goal of 100 teams from within the KBA membership," he concluded.

Greenberg-Weiss Feud Looms on DiMag Issue
New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—How will the world champion New York Yankees do without the retired Joe DiMaggio this year?

"Luck to finish in the first division," thinks Cleveland Indians' general manager Hank Greenberg.

That started what today looked like a merry feud between Greenberg and George Weiss, general manager of the Yankees.

When Weiss heard Greenberg's remarks, he snorted:
"It would appear that Mr. Greenberg is doing an excellent job of whistling his way past the top of the Cleveland 1951 collapse."

Greenberg maintained that DiMaggio "was still a great center-fielder. The Yanks are just an ordinary ball club without him."

Said Weiss:
"We would have been rather disappointed if Mr. Greenberg had picked the Yankees to finish at the top of the league in 1952 for his record as a prognosticator has not been very good. Didn't he predict that the Indians would win the pennant last year by seven games?"

Port Ewen Scores 83-15 Win in Church League
Two big splurges of 21 points in the opening period of play and 28 more in the final quarter sparked the Port Ewen Presentation cagers to an easy 83 to 15 victory over the Tigers in the Junior Church Basketball League at the MJM gym Wednesday.

Van Bramer, forward for the winners, paced both clubs in the scoring column with 39 points on 18 fields and three free tosses. Ward and Beaver followed with 13 and 12 apiece.

Lessick was high scorer for the Bengals with six points.

Port Ewen (83)—Ward, f, 6-1-13; P. Jordan, f, 0-2-2; Van Bramer, f, 18-3-39; Beaver, c, 6-0-12; Van Loan, g, 3-0-6; Ferraro, g, 4-1-9; H. Jordan, g, 1-0-2.

It's Now or Never For George Shuba

Mobile, Ala., Jan. 4 (AP)—This is the year of decision for George (Shotgun) Shuba, slugging Youngstown, O., outfielder, and the Brooklyn Dodgers.

A member of the Brooklyn organization for nine years, Shuba has been trying for six of those years to break into the Dodger lineup as a regular.

Three times he has been optioned to Mobile or Montreal. Now it's up to the Dodgers to keep the blond left-handed hitter, or call for waivers.

Conditioning here in advance of spring training, the 27-year-old Shuba said he felt confident he'd stick in the National League, either with Brooklyn or with another club. The New York Giants have shown an interest in him.

He hasn't signed his Brooklyn contract yet, but he said he was hopeful of coming to terms with the Dodger front office soon.

A knee injury that kept Shuba out of the Montreal lineup half of last season is healed, and the fly-chaser said he was ready to go. Shuba had one of his best years at Montreal last year after recovering from his injury. He hit .310, pounded out 20 homers, and drove in 84 runs.

Senior Open Jan. 11
Dunedin, Fla., Jan. 4 (AP)—The annual Senior professional golf tournament will be held on the PGA national course here Jan. 11-12. On Jan. 15-19 the same course will be the site for the first National Open for pro and amateur seniors. Seniors are 50 years or older.

Violet Streak Shattered, 100-75

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—The nation's longest basketball winning streak—12 straight by New York University—was at an end today because a red-hot aggregation of Mountaineers from West Virginia capitalized on the expert scouting of their coach.

It happened in Madison Square Garden last night when West Virginia thumped NYU, 100-75, for the Mountaineers' seventh triumph in eight outings. Their only defeat was an overtime setback by George Washington.

And off their great shooting against the Violets, it is difficult to envision any team whipping the fast stepping Mountaineers. They dropped in 50 per cent of their field goal attempts—27 out of 54—for a 58-35 lead at the half and were almost as good in the second half as they completed the game with a 45 out of 100 performance.

"You don't beat a team that is that hot," said Coach Howard Cann of NYU whose own team dropped in 32 out of 90. "I figured we would be defeated when we hit a hot shooting team and we did just that."

"We are confident," Bryant added, "that if other institutions will follow this plan, all the evils attendant on recruiting will be ended."

IBC Boxers to Get Free Insurance

Chicago, Jan. 4 (AP)—The International Boxing Club and its radio-television sponsor plan to provide free insurance for all boxers in IBC matches the Illinois Athletic Commission said yesterday.

Joseph Triner, IAB chairman, said an insurance program being worked out for Illinois bouts will provide $10,000 for a fighter's heirs if he is killed in the ring, plus full protection against ring-incurred injuries.

Truman Gibson, secretary of the IBC, confirmed the arrangements. He said similar coverage will be provided in other states in which the IBC promotes professional fights.

Kentucky Restricts Future Recruiting Of Gridders to Within State Boundary

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 4 (AP)—Football recruiting was restricted today at the University of Kentucky to its own back yard.

There is still a hearty welcome awaiting any out of state player but he must voluntarily apply for a scholarship. The school will make no effort to recruit prospective gridders who live outside the commonwealth. The maximum scholarships to non-Kentuckians will be five a year.

Coach Paul Bryant announced the change in the recruiting policy a few minutes after his squad returned from Dallas and its Cotton Bowl victory over Texas Christian.

Bryant said the idea was his own: "It applied only to football and we have concluded that the best interest will now be served by a change in this policy." Kentucky in the past has gone far afield in lining up football talent.

"We are confident," Bryant added, "that if other institutions will follow this plan, all the evils attendant on recruiting will be ended."

Van Bramer Sets Church League Scoring Record With 39 Points Against AZA's

Wings in the National Hockey League race, but they're proving one of the hottest clubs in the circuit after taking their fifth in a row.

Before a cheering home crowd of 14,492 last night, Montreal rammed two goals home in the opening period, and went on to score a 3-1 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs. This broke a second place tie between the teams and gave the Canadiens sole possession of the runnerup spot. It was the only league game of the night.

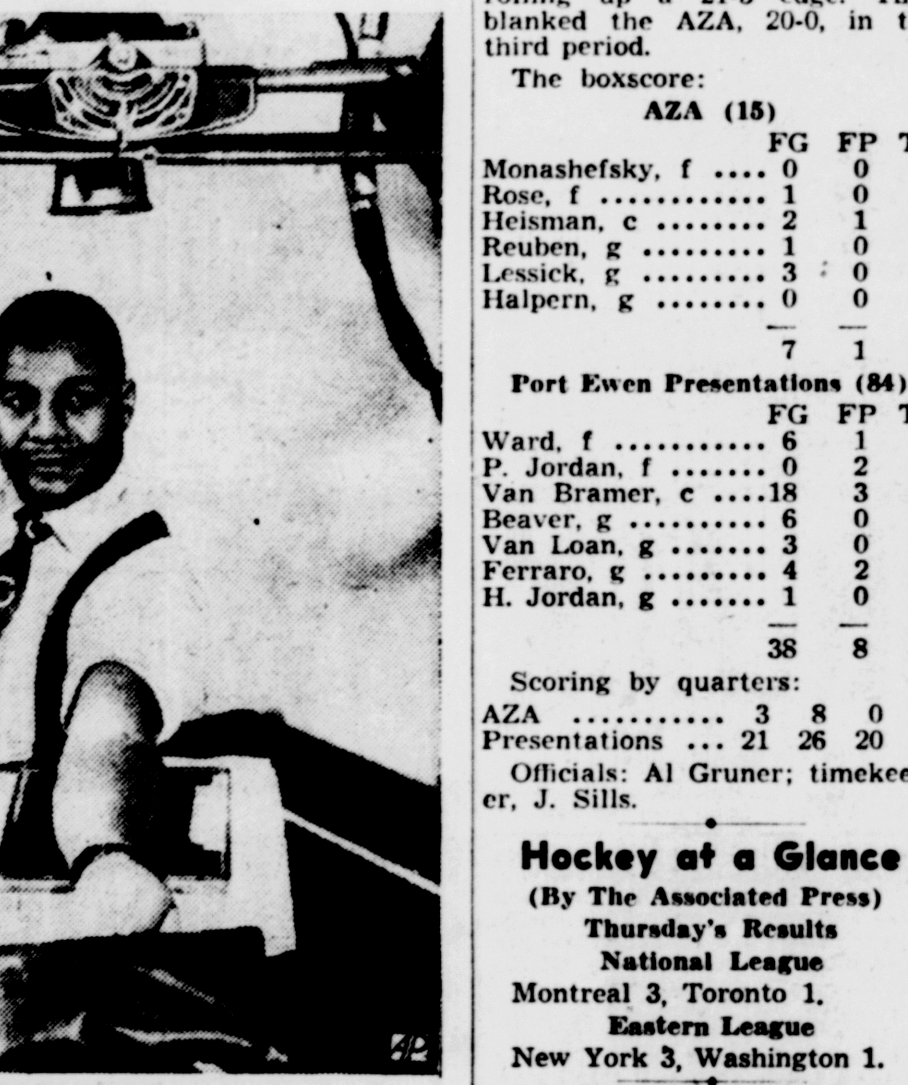

Port Ewen turned the game into a rout in the first quarter, rolling up a 21-3 edge. They blanked the AZA, 20-0, in the third period.

Vejar-Bolanos Bout Tonight at Garden

New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Chico Vejar, the 20-year-old collegian from Stamford, Conn., faces his first "big name" fighter tonight when he takes on the veteran Enrique Bolanos of Los Angeles at Madison Square Garden.

Ring time for the 10-rounder is 10 p. m. (EST) with network radio (ABC) and television (NBC) coverage.

Bolanos, who fought three times for Ike Williams' lightweight crown, and lost every time, has been fighting since 1943. Although he had a mediocre year in '51 his overall record for 83 fights is 66-14-3. Among his victims are Tommy Campbell, Chalky Wright, Maxie Docusen and John L. Davis.

Syracuse Retains Eastern Hoop Lead

(By The Associated Press)
The Syracuse Nationals today held down first place in the Eastern division of the National Basketball Association—but their grip was a loose one.

The Nats slipped into the front spot last night by whipping the Boston Celtics, 107-81, in the only scheduled game. The Celtics had been at the top of the heap, but now they're 14 points behind the Nats.

Speicher Works Receive Praise

Woodstock, Jan. 4—A friend and fellow-painter, Eugene Speicher, who attended the opening of the one-man show of paintings at the Century Club early in December, has reported that over 300 people attended the opening reception. Among the prominent Woodstockers who attended were Andree Ruellan, John Taylor, Mrs. Frank London, Arnold Blanch and Doris Lee and Mrs. Charles Rosen.

Concerning the exhibition, she reports that the place of honor on the main wall facing the entrance is given to the sensitive, full-length portrait of Katharine Cornell as Candida, loaned from the collection of the Buffalo Fine Arts Academy, Albright Art Gallery. In the foreground to the left, a superb painting of Katharine Cornell, a great achievement and one on which the artist could have rested and had his fame assured.

Paintings have been loaned by many private collectors and a number of museums throughout the country. The collectors include such well-known names as Stephen C. Clark, whose The Mountaineers has frequently been borrowed for other exhibitions and is well known as one of Speicher's finest portraits.

Jean Bellows, from the collection of The Art Institute of Chicago, is according to the catalogue, "another of those miracles such as happened in the Cornell portrait when the subject, the artist and his art are in perfect accord. One of Speicher's top efforts, it is one of the supreme achievements of our era."

Babette, frequently seen in photographs, was loaned by the Carnegie Institute. Another portrait of especial interest to Woodstockers is that of Katharine, daughter of the late Charles Rosen, and described in the catalogue as "a bit mysterious in its reticence and withdrawal from the observer."

Other collectors include Mrs. Helen Appleton Reid, Hinman B. Hurlbut, Edward W. Root, Mr. and Mrs. G. MacCulloch Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lucien Spaeth, Mr. and Mrs. Lesley G. Shearer.

Of the nudes, the catalogue stated "Speicher is one of the few modern artists who have kept alive the high tradition of the nude. When we reflect upon the countless studies of the human form that have achieved nothing more than the factual rendition of an unclothed figure, what a pleasure it is to come before a Speicher nude and observe how he has translated it into terms of art. His paintings of the human figure are nudes in the highest sense of the word."

There are several fine landscapes included in the show. "Old Boats at Rondout; Brigham Yard, East Kingston; Murray Bay Landscape; Port au Percil, Canada; Saw Mill, Yankee Town, New York. A number of his delicate flower paintings are included in the show.

In a separate room, are a group of drawings, with the following catalogue comment: "Much could be written about Speicher's superb craftsmanship and technical methods, but it is not my purpose to touch more lightly upon them. In an age when a search for novel effects sometimes leads into a blind alley, it is a pleasure to stand in front of a Speicher and, forgetting for a moment his subject matter, observe how beautifully he has wrought his pictures. His color, beautiful in its own right as well as serving its major function of revealing form, his subtle modeling and beautiful textures, all arouse our admiration to the greatest degree."

Speicher himself says: "Painting is like playing with electricity. Touch one part of the canvas, and something immediately happens to some other part. Part must be played against part, until the whole acquires a state of living balance."

Watercolor Sold

Woodstock, Jan. 4—Richard Stillwell, of the S. S. Seahorse has announced that a watercolor, one of the paintings on exhibition in the illustrators show currently on view at the restaurant, has been sold. The painting, entitled A Prayer by John McClellan has been purchased by Virginia Siegel of this village.

Ceramic Artists

Now in Florida
Woodstock, Jan. 4—Bill and Elsie Miller, ceramic artists, who were married in this village late last summer, and whose shop was located in the red barn next to the Town House are now associated for the winter months with the Florida Arts and Crafts Colony of Sarasota. The new craft center which opened Dec. 9, on the North Trail, is the first of its kind in the Sarasota area. Under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Hildard who have studied the ceramics industry and worked in various phases of it for some time, the colony's gallery is displaying for exhibition purposes and sale the handwork of Sarasota's craft artists.

The Florida Arts and Crafts Colony was the subject of a feature picture story in December in the Kingston Daily Freeman. The Millers expect to return to Woodstock in the spring to reopen their pottery shop and studio here.

To Elect Officers

Woodstock, Jan. 4—Election of officers for the coming year will be held at the meeting of the Zeta Country Club tonight at 8 o'clock.

Taylor Painting Is Subject for Critics

Woodstock, Jan. 4—An abstract painting by John Taylor was the subject of a discussion between John Kieran and John D. Morse, assistant editor of the American Artists magazine, last Sunday afternoon in a television broadcast directly from the Whitney Museum in New York.

An abstract painting by another artist was first shown and upon later reviewing the Taylor painting, Kieran remarked that the Woodstock artist's picture "had a lot more to it."

The two critics turned the painting upside down and agreed that "it still held together to make a complete pattern."

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

I was loaned a Kingston Weekly Freeman and Journal, of Thursday, March 7, 1889 by J. A. Simpson. One item was about pigeons being caught 40 years ago by the wagon load in the Catskills. The story in part: "Pigeons are now scarce in Ulster county, but some 40 years ago, they had their hatching and roosting places in the forests that bordered the Catskills, and even later, in the towns of Shandaken and Denning. They were in large flocks and were so numerous, at times, they would almost shut out the sun. Those were great days for hunters. Reports of shotguns were heard from morning till night, while those who were so fortunate as to own a net could be safely relied on to bring home a wagon load every day."

The reporter went on to explain how they were netted. "Why, we selected a place to be a good pigeon ground, according to whether the pigeons were hatching, or were 'hanging out' in the locality. Then we cut a number of small hemlock bushes sharpened the ends and drove them into the ground in a circle, leaving a sufficient space within for several persons to sit out of sight. This was called a Bough House. Then a bed was made by leveling the ground 20 or 30 feet away. Upon this we sprinkled wheat with anis, a seed to tempt the pigeons. A net was placed on one side of the bed fastened with saplings which sprung back so that when a rope was pulled at the Bough House, the net would be thrown over the bed. We had flyers and stool pigeons. Their eyes were sewed shut so they could not see. A flyer had a string attached to its legs. When thrown in the air it would fly up a short distance and drop down in a natural way as though it had found an inviting spot. This would attract the attention of pigeons which might be flying in the vicinity, sometimes drawing them from a considerable distance. Then the stool pigeon, a pigeon tied at the end of a lever, that could be worked up and down with a string, would be made to fly. By and by down would come the flock of pigeons with a roar on the bed."

It seemed sort of vicious pastime as it reads further: "While eating the grain the net would be sprung. Then a rush for the bed to hold down the net and kill the pigeons by hitting them in the neck. The dead birds would be thrown in a basket." One hunter remarked, "It's downright mean to kill them, but its business, not sentiment. . . . Pardee, who kept the Kingston Hotel, offered $1.00 a dozen for pigeons alive, which I accepted and delivered to him in a box. Two and six pence usually was a good price for a dozen. Even two cents apiece or less."

The writer further says: "Pigeons are better when netted than when shot with a gun as the shot mangles them. When 'Billy' Seaward was governor he often came down to Ulster county and went out pigeon netting. I have seen him covered with feathers so he looked as though the contents of a feather bed had been dumped over him."

Slayer Is Sought
New York, Jan. 4 (AP)—Detectives today worked in and out of Brooklyn's Bath Beach section—once a favorite dumping ground for Murder, Inc.—in their search for the slayers of a Coney Island restaurant owner, Shot four times, Jack Sparacino, 52, was found dead in a Bath Beach street last night. Police said he apparently was dumped out of an automobile and then shot. A woman resident of the neighborhood told of hearing several shots and seeing two men jump into a car which sped away.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Speicher Works Receive Praise

Woodstock, Jan. 4.—A friend and fellow-painter, of Eugene Speicher, who attended the opening of the one-man show of paintings at the Century Club early in December, has reported that over 300 people attended the opening reception. Among the prominent Woodstockers who attended were Andrew Ruellan, John Taylor, Mrs. Frank London, Arnold Blanch and Doris Lee and Mrs. Charles Rosen.

Concerning the exhibition, she reports that the place of honor on the main wall facing the entrance is given to the sensitive, full-length portrait of Katharine Cornell as Candida, loaned from the collection of the Buffalo Fine Arts Academy, Albright Art Gallery. In the foreground to the illustrated catalogue of the show, Charles E. Burchfield wrote: "a superb painting of Katharine Cornell, a great achievement and one on which the artist could have rested and had his fame assured."

Paintings have been loaned by many private collectors and a number of museums throughout the country. The collection includes such well-known names as Stephen C. Clark, whose The Mountaineers has frequently been borrowed for other exhibitions and is well known as one of Speicher's finest portraits.

"Jean Bellows," from the collection of The Art Institute of Chicago, is according to the catalogue, "another of those masterpieces such as happened in the Cornell portrait when the subject, the artist and his art are in perfect accord. One of Speicher's top efforts, it is one of the supreme achievements of our era."

Babette, frequently seen in photographs was loaned by the Carnegie Institute.

Another portrait of special interest to Woodstockers is that of Katharine, daughter of the late Charles Rosen, and described in the catalogue as "a bit mysterious in its reticence and withdrawal from the observer."

Other collectors include Mrs. Helen Appleton Read, Himmab R. Huribut, Edward W. Root, Mr. and Mrs. G. MacCulloch Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lucien Spaeth, Mr. and Mrs. Lesley G. Shearer.

Of the studies, the catalogue stated "Speicher is one of the few modern artists who have kept alive the high tradition of the nude. When we reflect upon the form that have achieved nothing more than the factual rendition of an unclothed figure, what a pleasure it is to come before a Speicher nude, and observe how he has translated it into terms of art. His paintings of the human figure are nude in the highest sense of the word."

There are several fine landscape paintings included in the show. "Old Boats at Rondout, Brigham Yard, East Kingston, Murray Bay Landscape, Port au Peril, Canada, Saw Mill, Yankee Town, New York. A number of his delicate flower paintings are included in the show.

In a separate room, a group of drawings, with the following catalogue comment: "Much could be written about Speicher's superb craftsmanship and technical methods, but it is not my purpose to touch more lightly upon them. . . . In an age when a search for novel effects sometimes leads into blind alleys, it is a pleasure to stand in front of a Speicher drawing, forgetting for a moment his subject matter, observe how beautifully he has wrought his pictures. His color, beautiful in its own right as well as serving its major function of revealing form, his subtle modeling and beautiful textures all cause our admiration to the greatest degree."

Speicher himself says: "Painting is like playing with electricity. Touch one part of the canvas, and something immediately happens to some other part. Part must be played against part, until the whole acquires a state of living balance."

Watercolor Sold

Woodstock, Jan. 4.—Richard Stilwell, of the S. S. Seahorse has announced that a watercolor, one of the paintings on exhibition in the illustrations show currently on view at the restaurant, has been sold. The painting, entitled A Prayer by John McClellan has been purchased by Virginia Siegel of this village.

Ceramic Artists

Now in Florida
 Woodstock, Jan. 4.—Bill and Elsie Miller, ceramic artists, who were married in this village late last summer, and whose shop was located in the red barn next to the Town House are now associated for the winter months with the Florida Arts and Crafts Colony of Sarasota. The new craft colony which opened Dec. 9, on the North Trail, is the first of its kind in the Sarasota area. Under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Hilliard who have studied the craft industry and worked in various phases of it for some time, the colony is displaying for exhibition purposes and sale the handwork of Sarasota's craft artists.

The Florida Arts and Crafts Colony was the subject of a feature picture story in December in the Sarasota Herald-Tribune. Among the photographs of the various craftsmen at work was a study of Bill Miller at his potter's wheel.

The Millers expect to return to Woodstock in the spring to reopen their pottery shop and studio here.

To Elect Officers

Woodstock, Jan. 4.—Election of officers for the coming year will be held at the meeting of the Zeena Country Club tonight at 8 o'clock.

Taylor Painting Is Subject for Critics

Woodstock, Jan. 4.—An abstract painting by John Taylor was the subject of a discussion between John Kieran and John D. Morse, assistant editors of the American Artists magazine, last Sunday afternoon in a television broadcast directly from the Whitney Museum in New York.

An abstract painting by another artist was first shown and upon later reviewing the Taylor painting, Kieran remarked that the Woodstock artist's picture "had a lot more to it."

The two critics turned the painting upside down and agreed that "it still held together to make a complete pattern."

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

I was loaned a Kingston Weekly Freeman and Journal, of Thursday, March 7, 1889 by J. A. Simpson. One item was about pigeons being caught 40 years ago by the wagon load in the Catskills. The story in part: "Pigeons are now scarce in Ulster county, but some 40 years ago, they had their hatching and roosting places in the forests that border the Catskills, and even later, the towns of Shandaken and Denning. They were in large flocks and were so numerous, at times, they would almost shut out the sun. Those were great days for hunters. Reports of shotguns were heard from morning till night, while those who were fortunate as to own a net could be safely relied on to bring home a wagon load every day."

The reporter went on to explain how they were netted. "Why, we selected a place to be a good pigeon ground, according to whether the pigeons were hatching, or were hanging out in the locality. Then we cut a number of small hemlock bushes, sharpened the ends and drove them in the ground in a circle, leaving a sufficient space within for several persons to sit out of sight. This was called a Bough House. Then a net was made by leveling the ground 20 or 30 feet away. Upon this we sprinkled wheat with anis seed to tempt the pigeons."

"A net was placed on one side of the bed fastened with saplings which sprung back so that when a rope was pulled at the Bough House, the net would be thrown over the bed. We had flyers and stool pigeons. The flyers were seved shut so they could not see. A flyer had a string attached to its legs. When thrown in the air it would fly up a short distance and drop down in a natural way as though it had found an inviting spot. This would attract the attention of pigeons which might be flying in the vicinity, sometimes drawing them from a considerable distance. Then the stool pigeon, a pigeon tied at the end of a lever that could be worked up and down with a string, would be made to fly. By and by down would come the flock of pigeons with a roar on the bed."

It seemed sort of vicious pastime as it reads further: "While eating the grain the net would be sprung. Then a rush for the bed to hold down the net and kill the pigeons by hitting them in the neck. The dead birds would be thrown in a basket." One hunter remarked, "It's downright mean to kill them, but its business, not sentiment. . . . Pardee, who kept the Kingston Hotel, offered $1.00 a dozen for pigeons alive, which I accepted and delivered to him in a box. The birds were perched usually was a good price for a dozen. Even two cents apiece or less."

The writer further says: "Pigeons are better when netted than when shot with a gun as the shot mangles them. When 'Billy' Sevard was governor, a net was come down to Ulster county and went out pigeon netting. I have seen him covered with feathers so he looked as though the contents of a feather bed had been dumped over him."

Slayer Is Sought

New York, Jan. 4.—Detectives today worked in and out of Brooklyn's Bath Beach section—once a favorite dumping ground for Murder, Inc.—in their search for the slayers of a Coney Island restaurant owner. Shot four times, Jack Sparacino, 52, was found dead in a Bath Beach street last night. Police said he apparently was dumped out of an automobile and then shot. A woman resident of the neighborhood told of hearing several shots and seeing two men jump into a car which sped away.

To the Above-Named Defendants in this action:

The foregoing summons is served upon you by publication, pursuant to an order of Hon. John M. Cashin, County Clerk of Ulster County, dated the 19th day of December, 1951, and filed with the complaint in the office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster at Kingston, N. Y., on the 19th day of December, 1951.

The object of the above-entitled action is to compel the determination of an adverse claim, if any, thereon, under article fifteen of the real property law, to the following described real property:

ALL THAT TRACT, PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND, situated in the County of Ulster, State of New York, distinguished as lots Nos. one hundred and thirty-four (134), and one hundred and thirty-five (135) on the property of the said corporation (The President, Managers and Company of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company, meaning) as described and designated in their survey of the same, accompanied by a map thereof, bearing front eighty (80) feet, and in rear eighty (80) feet and one hundred and thirty-two (132) feet deep, and bounded as follows:—In front on German St., in rear by lots Nos. one hundred and twenty-three (123) and one hundred and twenty-four (124), on the east by lot one hundred and thirty-three (133) now or formerly occupied by Math. Brook, and on the west side by the same premises conveyed by Peter J. Lane and wife to Thomas Caples by deed dated June 1, 1888, and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's office in book 120, at page 489, and of which the said Thomas Caples died seized and possessed on the 1st day of February, 1952, intestate, leaving surviving Mary M. Murphy and Richard Caples, his sole heirs at law and next of kin, and the children of John Caples, deceased brother of the said Thomas Caples.

Being a lot of land fifty (50) feet deep, and bounded by Ridge Street, in the division line between now or formerly of Thomas Caples and Henry French, and running fifty (50) feet on Ridge Street; then eighty (80) feet east; the lands of John Brook; then fifty (50) feet to the land now or formerly of Thompkins and French; then eighty (80) feet to the place of beginning. Being a lot of land fifty (50) feet on Ridge Street; eighty (80) feet deep, and bounded by Ridge Street and lands now or formerly of Thomas Caples, land of Henry French and the land of Nathaniel Thompkins, and the land of John Brook.

Dated, Kingston, N. Y., December 20, 1951.

Laundry Driver Injured; Condition Reported as 'Fair'

Tracy Elliott, 46, of Connelly, truck driver for Mother's Laundry, was injured about 2:25 p. m. Thursday when he was struck by an automobile on Route 32 two miles east of Kingston, state police reported.

Elliott was taken by ambulance to Kingston Hospital, where his condition today was reported as "apparently fair."

Troopers reported he suffered fractures of both legs when he was struck by an automobile operated by Vincent R. Shortell, 36, of 29 Warren Street.

Shortell, who was not held, told state police that Elliott stepped in front of his automobile. Elliott had parked his truck and was returning after delivering a bundle of laundry, when the accident occurred, the state police report said.

Troopers Michael Lisman and John Gohde investigated.

Saulpaugh Resigns

with alleged protection payoffs and vote buying.

Williams Is Named
Governor Dewey yesterday named Paul Williams, New York City lawyer, to supersede McLaughlin for the special grand jury investigation.

The Governor acted after receiving a letter from Joseph M. Proskauer, state crime commission chairman, who conducted the three-day hearings in Hudson last month.

Proskauer, who recommended the special grand jury probe, told the governor "there was no evidence of misfeasance" on the part of McLaughlin.

Proskauer added that he was "impressed by his (McLaughlin's) sincerity, and his integrity was in no way challenged," McLaughlin is a Republican.

Saulpaugh was the second county chairman in the state to resign as a result of crime commission hearings.

Edward Ruppel, also a Republican, quit last September as chairman of the Richmond county (State Island) party at the request of State Chairman William L. Pfeiffer after witnesses at a crime commission hearing had accused Ruppel of "taking contributions" for political favor.

In Hudson yesterday, Thomas P. Kennedy, who was named in testimony at the hearings here, was reappointed Columbia county attorney.

The board of supervisors followed party lines yesterday in approving Kennedy, a Republican. The vote was 16 to 7.

Kennedy's name was brought into the hearing testimony Dec. 19 when a Republican county committee man, Samuel Raco, testified that there had been a meeting between Kennedy, Sheriff Colwell, Saulpaugh and Earl J. Colwell, then mayor.

An assistant counsel of the commission, Ben A. Matthews, had asked Raco whether the late Hudson police chief, Thomas Howe, ever had threatened to close crap games.

Raco said he had, and added that there was a "meeting over here in the courthouse between Kennedy, Colwell and Saulpaugh and they told him (Howe) to lay off because that was their best means of contribution."

Asked to comment on Raco's statement, Kennedy told a reporter today:

"I flatly and absolutely deny that there ever was such a meeting and that I attended such a meeting."

Tug Mate Finally

gear through stern, chock gear parted both times.

"Mate of Turmoil managed to get aboard over affair of Enterprise and is now standing by with Capt. Carlsen.

Further Attempts Suspend
"Further attempts have been suspended until weather improves. Captain of Turmoil is confident he can get tow rigged if we get a break in weather and will resume efforts day or night.

"Weather same as last report except fog closing in and wind increasing to 28-32 knots at times.

"Enterprise has increased list very slightly but is still buoyant and riding satisfactorily."

An early message from the Weeks said there was a possibility Carlsen would be taken off his ship today, but later it was explained this meant "after towing commences."

This made it plain that Carlsen intended to see his beloved ship all the way to safe harbor.

ment from U.N. command officers here or in Tokyo on Thursday's Soviet proposal in Paris that the UN Security Council try to find a basis for ending the Korean war. The matter did not come up during Friday's subcommittee sessions at Panmunjom.

S. S. diplomatic spokesmen in Washington were not enthusiastic. Most of them said such intervention would lessen the chances of peace.

tion can be started, the contractor must remove considerable rock by blasting. Therefore, there is going to be for some weeks a hazardous condition which will require that all transportation and travel around this area must be definitely restricted.

"We are arranging with the firm which has the contract for removing the rock that no blasting shall be done between the hours of 8 and 9 a. m., between the hours of 11:30 a. m. and 1 p. m., and 3 and 3:30 p. m.

The companies transporting children by bus must, therefore, make certain that their busses arrive on schedule so that they will be away from the high school area at all hours when blasting is not restricted. THIS IS VERY IMPORTANT, and we must ask the operators of the school busses to make certain that the schedule is strictly adhered to.

In Use This Month
If work continues to progress under the present schedule it is expected the new George Washington School on Wall Street will be placed in use on January 28.

Joseph Ahl, whose name was certified by the Municipal Civil Service Commission, was appointed head janitor in the George Washington elementary school.

Luther Lee Ellsworth of 409 Washington Avenue was given temporary employment as janitor at No. 5 school. He will take the civil service examination to qualify for permanent appointment.

Victoria Maroon Owen was granted leave from January 1, 1952 to June 30, 1953.

Edna S. Morgan was appointed account clerk in the office of the board of education, her name having been at the head of the civil service list.

The board approved a resolution of condolence on the death of Edith Gage, fourth grade teacher at No. 5 school, died on December 25, last, and appointed as substitute teacher in this grade, Arpha L. Craft.

Grand Jurors Will Meet on Monday

A busy meeting is scheduled Monday at 8 p. m., of the Association of Grand Jurors of Ulster County, and one of the major discussions will be on the formation of an association extending over the entire Hudson valley.

President Thomas J. Murphy of the Ulster Association urges a full attendance of members at the session to be held at the court house on Wall street.

Contact has been made with other grand juror associations in this area, President Murphy said, and a very favorable report is anticipated relative to the proposed Federation of Grand Jurors Associations of the Hudson Valley.

Plans for the new organization were sponsored by the Ulster Association, which has been very progressive under the direction of President Murphy, who, on various occasions has expressed his appreciation to officers and members for their cooperation.

Anyone is eligible for membership who has served on the grand jury of the county, and reports are to be voted on at the meeting next Monday. Information about joining the association may be obtained by phoning 4771-W or 4584-M.

Dues due for 1952 may be sent to the secretary, Mrs. Ann M. Ashdown, 154 Foxhall avenue.

Donofrio Pleads

was found Dec. 4, 1950 in two dime lockers in a Brooklyn railway station.

Hands, Teeth Missing

The hands and teeth were missing and the body went unidentified for three weeks despite widespread publicity.

The girl's mother, Mrs. John Martin, wife of the Saugerties postmaster, failed in the meantime to receive her usual Christmas card from the daughter and notified police she might be the victim.

Police visited the apartment, found bloodstains and a few days later arrested Donofrio.

They quoted him as saying he had not intended to kill the woman. He said he became frightened at finding her dead when he sobered up and that he cut up her body to hide it.

He said he threw the hands, which once had been fingerprinted for a minor offense, into a garbage wagon and the teeth into an ash pile so she could not be identified.

Reaches 25th Year

Patrolman Walter J. Fitzgerald reached his 25th year as a member of the local police force on Jan. 1 and that brought to light the fact that the local department now has eight members who have served 25 years or more.

Officer Fitzgerald was appointed on Jan. 1, 1927, and the late Joseph Fallon went on the force at about the same time.

The oldest members of the force are Lt. James P. Martin and Patrolman Elbert Soper who are in their 35th year of service. They were appointed Dec. 1, 1917, and have agreed to alternate in buying each other a turkey dinner in observance of the date of appointment.

Lt. Martin said today Soper's turn comes next.

Officers Peter Camp and Gurnsey Burger, Sr., were appointed to the force on May 30, 1919, and Police Chief Raymond VanBuren has been with the department since May 29, 1921.

Officer Edward J. Leonard went on the force on Jan. 5, 1923 and Detective Clarence Brophy on May 15, 1925.

Duchess County Agent Louis A. Jensen said ranchers were offering cattle for sale in desperation and a "haylift" may be necessary.

Salt Lake City officials opened a drive against deer which were marauding the city cemetery. A bobcat was shot at an oil refinery in north Salt Lake. Many schools were still closed and temperatures plunged as low as 40 below at Indianola, 38 below at Vernal and minus 34 at Herber City.

The persons had been marooned since Sunday when the storm struck, leaving behind five days of blizzard, avalanche and death.

It was the worst blizzard in modern Colorado history, taking possibly six lives. Two persons froze to death, one man died of a heart attack attempting to free his car from a snow bank, a four-month-old Dumas, Texas, girl was killed in the crash of a small plane on Monarch Pass and two truck drivers are still missing.

And the search for stranded motorists, farmers, ranchers and skiers still goes on.

Tiny Silverton, Colo., once a raucous mining community, was linked with civilization Thursday when snowplows bit through blocked highway 550 north of Durango. Residents had been isolated since Sunday, but they said they suffered no hardships.

Try to Clear Pass
Attempts to clear Cumbres Pass on the Colorado-New Mexico line and a narrow gauge line of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, continued today.

Travel on all Colorado mountain roads was described as dangerous and one-way traffic was necessary on Loveland Pass, above timberline.

Major Utah highways were opened Thursday, but secondary roads were jammed with snow.

An acute hay shortage was declared in Utah's Uintah basin.

Council Adopts

ran for five years, but it was approved for a shorter time this year because of the possibility of selling the land to the school.

Budget Discussion Brief

Discussion of the budget, which fixes the amount to be raised by taxes at $1,625,139.25, was brief. It began with Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel (D) who objected to the "short lapse of time" between completion of the budget and the hearing date.

Persons who really want to study budget provisions, he said, did not have the time to do so. This, he felt, was a practice that had gone on through both administrations for years back, and "I would like to recommend a little fair play in the future."

Alderman Thomas F. Coughlin, Seventh Ward, (D) also indicated that because of the short notice he also had found it impossible to attend the budget hearing, and he was unable to determine whether a provision had been made for placing a fence on Dock street.

Past carelessness, Coughlin said, resulted in a $35,000 verdict against the city because no fence had been placed along Dock street, but more important, he said, a fence would have saved a life. He hoped that something would be done about it and Alderman John M. Dolan (R) eighth ward, said he had learned from Ernest A. Steuding, public works superintendent, that a fence had been ordered.

Fence Is Ordered

Steuding said today that a corrugated steel fence of the type now along a section of Abel street has been ordered from the Armco Steel Company and should be arriving in the city soon.

Alderman James K. Ryan (D) successor to James J. Carroll in the tenth ward, said that he was hopeful that something would be done to make use of the No. 8 school grounds for recreational purposes when the school is abandoned following the opening of the George Washington School.

Robert C. Cullum, 12th ward, the last to talk on the budget said:

"After studying the budget for 1952 and realizing the inflationary period we are going through at the present time, and have been going through for the past several years, it would seem to me that the mayor is to be congratulated in preparing the present budget and keeping the tax rate as low as he could and at the same time maintain the outstanding services that this city is fortunate to enjoy."

"I think it is worthy of consideration," Cullum continued, "at this time to realize that upon entering office four years ago the Newkirk administration inherited a $40,000 deficit from the previous administration and within a period of four years has not only wiped out this deficit but can show at this time a $15,000 surplus which is of direct benefit to every taxpayer in the City of Kingston and this being accomplished during this period of inflation."

In Right Direction

"I realize the increasing tax burden that our taxpayers are carrying each year, however, he said, and I am certain that the present administration is ever mindful of the situation and that the administration will study and endeavor to find some means whereby in the future the burden can be somewhat lessened. We while heading the Justice Department's tax revision.

On the other hand, McGrath is the President's long-time trusted friend, not personally accused of any irregularity, and generally credited with doing as much as any one man in getting Mr. Truman elected in 1948. McGrath at the time was chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

In these circumstances, many find it difficult to believe a presidential dismissal possible.

With Hard Choices

McGrath is also confronted with hard choices:

His loyalty to the President and to his party is ingrained. A voluntary step-down in favor of another appointee as attorney general might assist the President, but it would be hard to take after more than 21 years of distinguished public service and the possibility of even higher office.

It has long been a generally accepted fact here that McGrath would be given the next vacancy in the Supreme Court.

The recent flurry of McGrath reports also have included forecasts that he might become an ambassador.

Mr. Truman flatly refused to discuss these things yesterday.

Mr. Truman did, however, clear up a related point: he said widespread reports that Federal Judge Thomas F. Murphy of New York once accepted and later turned down an appointment to head an investigation of corruption-in-government charges were true.

Judge Murphy, in New York, said "what the President says is correct" but refused to explain why he had finally turned down the appointment.

No Water or Food, Chinese Reds Quit

U.S. Third Infantry Division, Korea, Jan. 4 (AP)—A U. S. platoon had occupied a hill, checked the captured bunkers, formed a defense perimeter, and settled down for a short stay.

For two days all was quiet. No Communist troops came around shooting. Boredom set in.

On the third day, the infantrymen heard a rumbling on the opposite side of the bunker they had been occupying. Then the bunker wall collapsed. Then stepped 13 well-armed but hungry and thirsty Chinese soldiers. They had holed up in the other part of the bunker but decided to surrender after their water gave out.

now have ended a year with a surplus. It is surely a step in the right direction."

A letter from Henry H. Swart of the contracting firm of Henry H. Swart & Son, suggesting that something be done with the former city home property, was read and filed. Swart said he noticed that the property is depreciating fast and suggested that if the city cannot make use of it, he would advise selling it "as it could be put in use in several ways and also go on the tax list."

Also read and filed was Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk's announcement of the appointment of Corporation Counsel James G. Connelly and City Engineer Arthur F. Hallinan to the city planning commission and a Christmas card from former alderman Charles Cole from the U.S.S. Pocono. The aldermen were also surprised by the appearance of the former 13th ward councilman before the meeting ended. He is home on leave.

while heading the Justice Department's tax revision.

On the other hand, McGrath is the President's long-time trusted friend, not personally accused of any irregularity, and generally credited with doing as much as any one man in getting Mr. Truman elected in 1948. McGrath at the time was chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

In these circumstances, many find it difficult to believe a presidential dismissal possible.

With Hard Choices

McGrath is also confronted with hard choices:

His loyalty to the President and to his party is ingrained. A voluntary step-down in favor of another appointee as attorney general might assist the President, but it would be hard to take after more than 21 years of distinguished public service and the possibility of even higher office.

It has long been a generally accepted fact here that McGrath would be given the next vacancy in the Supreme Court.

The recent flurry of McGrath reports also have included forecasts that he might become an ambassador.

Mr. Truman flatly refused to discuss these things yesterday.

Mr. Truman did, however, clear up a related point: he said widespread reports that Federal Judge Thomas F. Murphy of New York once accepted and later turned down an appointment to head an investigation of corruption-in-government charges were true.

Judge Murphy, in New York, said "what the President says is correct" but refused to explain why he had finally turned down the appointment.

Steel Strategists

called to decide whether the million-man union would strike about 90 per cent of the basic steel industry to back up its demands for pay increases and other contract concessions.

The proposal carried the endorsement of President Murray and the 36-man policy making executive board.

President Truman had made two appeals to the union to forego a strike now and keep badly needed steel flowing for defense and essential civilian needs. Noting the White House pleas, the resolution said:

"To the President of the United States we say: We accept your request and agree to postpone the effective date of our strike so that the Wage Stabilization Board may consider the case promptly on its merits and recommend fair and equitable terms of settlement."

The WSB recommendations will not be binding on either union or industry.

Grand Jurors Will Meet on Monday

A busy meeting is scheduled Monday at 8 p. m., of the Association of Grand Jurors of Ulster County, and one of the major discussions will be on the formation of an association extending over the entire Hudson valley.

President Thomas J. Murphy of the Ulster Association urges a full attendance of members at the session to be held at the court house on Wall street.

Contact has been made with other grand juror associations in this area, President Murphy said, and a very favorable report is anticipated relative to the proposed Federation of Grand Jurors Associations of the Hudson Valley.

Plans for the new organization were sponsored by the Ulster Association, which has been very progressive under the direction of President Murphy, who, on various occasions has expressed his appreciation to officers and members for their cooperation.

Anyone is eligible for membership who has served on the grand jury of the county, and reports are that a number of applications are to be voted on at the meeting next Monday. Information about joining the association may be obtained by phoning 4771-W or 4584-M.

Dues due for 1952 may be sent to the secretary, Mrs. Ann M. Ashdown, 154 Foxhall avenue.

Donofrio Pleads

was found Dec. 4, 1950 in two dime lockers in a Brooklyn railway station.

Hands, Teeth Missing

The hands and teeth were missing and the body went unidentified for three weeks despite widespread publicity.

The girl's mother, Mrs. John Martin, wife of the Saugerties postmaster, failed in the meantime to receive her usual Christmas card from the daughter and notified police she might be the victim.

Police visited the apartment, found bloodstains and a few days later arrested Donofrio.

They quoted him as saying he had not intended to kill the woman. He said he became frightened at finding her dead when he sobbed up and that he cut up her body to hide it.

He said he threw the hands, which once had been fingerprinted for a minor offense, into a garbage wagon and the teeth into an ash pile so she could not be identified.

Reaches 25th Year

Patrolman Walter J. Fitzgerald reached his 25th year as a member of the local police force on Jan. 1 and that brought to light the fact that the local department now has eight members who have served 25 years or more.

Officer Fitzgerald was appointed on Jan. 1, 1927, and the late Joseph Fallon went on the force at about the same time.

The oldest members of the force are Lt. James P. Martin and Patrolman Elbert Soper who are in their 35th year of service. They were appointed Dec. 1, 1917, and have agreed to alternate in buying each other a turkey dinner in observance of the date of appointment.

Lt. Martin said today Soper's turn comes next.

Officers Peter Camp and Gurnsey Burger, Sr., were appointed to the force on May 30, 1919, and Police Chief Raymond VanBuren has been with the department since May 29, 1921.

Officer Edward J. Leonard went on the force on Jan. 5, 1923 and Detective Clarence Brophy on May 15, 1925.

Marooned Since Sunday

The state patrol said the nine persons taken from the east shelter included Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Spendt of Denver and their three children, the Rev. and Mrs. John Madenly of Colorado Springs and three unidentified truck drivers.

The persons had been marooned since Sunday when the storm struck, leaving behind five days of blizzard, avalanche and death.

It was the worst blizzard in modern Colorado history, taking possibly six lives. Two persons froze to death, one man died of a heart attack attempting to free his car from a snow bank, a four-month-old Dumas, Texas, girl was killed in the crash of a small plane on Monarch Pass and two truck drivers are still missing.

And the search for stranded motorists, farmers, ranchers and skiers still goes on.

Try to Clear Pass
Attempts to clear Cumbres Pass on the Colorado-New Mexico line and a narrow gauge line of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, continued today.

Travel on all Colorado mountain roads was described as dangerous and one-way traffic was necessary on Loveland Pass, above timberline.

Major Utah highways were opened Thursday, but secondary roads were jammed with snow.

An acute hay shortage was declared in Utah's Uintah basin.

Budget Discussion Brief

Discussion of the budget, which fixes the amount to be raised by taxes at $1,625,139.25, was brief. It began with Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel (D) who objected to the "short lapse of time," between completion of the budget and the hearing date.

Persons who really want to study budget provisions, he said, did not have the time to do so. This, he felt, was a practice that had gone on through both administrations for years back, and "I would like to recommend a little fair play in the future."

Alderman Thomas F. Coughlin, Seventh Ward, (D) also indicated that because of the short notice he also had found it impossible to attend the budget hearing, and he was unable to determine whether a provision had been made for placing a fence on Dock street.

Past carelessness, Coughlin said, resulted in a $35,000 verdict against the city because no fence had been placed along Dock street, but more important, he said, a fence would have saved a life. He hoped that something would be done about it and Alderman John M. Dolan (R) eighth ward, said he had learned from Ernest A. Steuding, public works superintendent, that a fence had been ordered.

Fence Is Ordered

Steuding said today that a corrugated steel fence of the type now along a section of Abel street has been ordered from the Armo Steel Company and should be arriving in the city soon.

Alderman James K. Ryan (D) successor to James J. Carroll in the tenth ward, said that he was hopeful that something would be done to make use of the No. 8 school ground for recreational purposes when the school is abandoned following the opening of the George Washington School.

Robert C. Cullum, (R) 12th ward, the last to talk on the budget said:

"After studying the budget for 1952 and realizing the inflationary period we are going through at the present time, and have been going through for the past several years, it would seem to me that the mayor is to be congratulated in preparing the present budget and keeping the tax rate as low as he could and at the same time maintain the outstanding services that this city is fortunate to enjoy."

"I think it is worthy of consideration," Cullum continued, "at this time to realize that upon entering office four years ago the Newkirk administration inherited a $40,000 deficit from the previous administration and within a period of four years has not only wiped out this deficit but can show at this time a $15,000 surplus which is of direct benefit to every taxpayer in the City of Kingston and this being accomplished during this period of inflation."

In Right Direction

"I realize the increasing tax burden that our taxpayers are carrying each year, however, he said, and I am certain that the present administration is ever mindful of the situation and that the administration will study and endeavor to find some means whereby in the future the burden can be somewhat lessened. We
